ENCINAL SIGNAL FINALLY IN OPERATION

New traffic signal at Encinal schol went into operation Tuesday morning, after Atherton Police Chief gave junior traffic patrolmen instructions on its operation. Above the junior patrols are shown guarding a grup of first graders as they cross Middlefield. The signal, installed 350 feet north of Encinal avenue, was put in after many months of work by the school's PTA and some delay in getting the necessary equipment. —Recorder photo

High School PTA Asks City for Crossing Signals

Menlo-Atherton high school's PTA, noting that traffic on Middlefield road is growing, this week called for action by the city of Menlo Park aimed at installing signal lights at Ringwood avenue and at Oak Grove avenue intersections with the north-south bound thoroughfare.

The request came in the form of a letter to the Menlo Park planning commission, which took no action but forwarded the request for the lights to the city's traffic safety commission.

Whether or not the Menlo Park body can take any action was not discussed by the planners; however, only the Ringwood avenue intersection abuts Menlo Park while the other intersection is in Atherton.

The letter was signed by members of the PTA's executive board.

Postoffice Tops 1953 by 20 Pct.

Menlo Park postoffice's total receipts for 1954 stand at $426,285.43 and represent a 20 per cent gain over totals for 1953, Postmaster Harry B. Morey announced this week.

The postoffice, after an all-time Christmas mailing splurge, had returned to normal operation with 70 employees and seven trucks, where during the holidays it required a complement of 100 men and 18 trucks.

The year's total, compared with the $355,851.21 of 1953, indicates that business and residential activity in the city is still growing. Generally, postal receipts are taken as an index.

Scouts Plan New Station:

Walter, Our Weathermouse, To Get Help with His Reports

Walter the Weathermouse, the Recorder's recorder of temperatures, is going to get some help in the next few weeks.

The help is to come in the form of a "weather station" which is to be set up somewhere in western Menlo Park, to be watched by members of Boy Scout Troop 104.

Walter has been having aspersions and accusations of inaccuracy heaped on his li'l head during the past few frosty weeks, when he cheerfully reports temperatures in the high 30's, while residents remember shivering under conditions which they KNOW were colder than that.

Trouble is, Walter's weather station is at the Menlo Park Sanitary District's sewage treatment plant—surrounded by water and therefore insulated from extreme heat and cold.

Ray Bisio, Scoutmaster of Boy Scout Troop 104, says that is it hopel a weather station can be set up which will not only give maximum and minimum temperatures for downtown Menlo Park, but also relative humidity.

It is hoped the station can be located either at Hillview school, or at the home of the Scout detailed to keep check on it.

Walter's sponsors at the Recorder are to furnish necessary meteorological machinery.

The suggestion that Walter's reports could be made more accurate for downtown Menlo Park came from Chamber of Commerce Manager Fred Sammis.

Troop 104 is sponsored by the Menlo Park Lions club.

Pedestrian, 65, Struck by Auto

A 65-year-old man who was struck by an auto at El Camino Real and Ravenswood avenue at 12:30 p.m. Dec. 29 suffered injuries to both legs, Menlo Park police report.

The man, Henry H. Kuhn of 1040 Noel drive, was involved with an auto driven by Albert P. Ostraff ,27, Stanford student who resides in Stanford Village.

According to police reports, Ostraff was making a left turn from Ravenswood onto the highway and Kuhn was crossing the thoroughfare with the green light when the accident occurred.

City Awaits Word on Village Deal

Uncle Sam got a breather this week.

In its informal meeting Tuesday night, Menlo Park's city council decided to give the Public Housing Administration a week's grace before blasting that federal agency for not living up to its agreements in regard to release of Stanford Village property.

On Dec. 2, Mayor Charles P. Burgess was assured in Washington that details of the proposal for sale of a majority of the Village land to Stanford university would be announced within 30 days. That period expired last Sunday, and City Manager C. L. Longson told councilmen Tuesday that nothing had yet been heard from the PHA.

Burgess pointed out, however, that the city would be in position to take a stronger stand at its official meeting next Tuesday if no action has been reported before then.

SEEK TO KEEP SRI

For the last two years the city has been endeavoring to get the land, formerly the site of Dibble General hospital and long-since declared surplus, out of federal control and back on the tax rolls. Another cause for urgency in the matter has been the rapid growth of Stanford Research Institute.

The institute has indicated it would prefer to erect permanent quarters on the village site, but because of the growth of its operations it must plan to move into new quatrers by the end of 1956 at the latest.

If the land is not soon available here, the institute will have to seek another location. A leased site on Stanford university property in South Palo Alto has been under consideration.

During the last year of negotiations with the PHA, according to institute Business Manager George Herbert, the number of staff members has increased from about 675 to 830.

One obstacle to location of the institute here recently was removed when the Army gave up its intention of building an armory on part of the site.

Reclassification Proposed:

Planners to Study Future of Linfield Oaks Commercial Zoning at Meeting on Jan. 17

Whether a portion of Linfield Oaks will be reclassified from a present "commercial" designation to one which will allow its development as professional - administrative property is to be discussed by representatives of the developers and the Menlo Park planning commission on Jan. 17.

The planners invited Ray Lindsay, representative of the Claude T. Lindsay company, to their adjourned meeting later this month after the citw council asked that they consider a proposal of the Menlo Park Chamber of Commerce, asking that the land involved be rezoned.

In another action, the planners reaffirmed their stand that a link of Willow road under the Southern Pacific tracks to El Camino Real was "vital," and called for "high priority" for such a project.

They also received, as a New Year's present from the Lindsay company, a copy of the "Community Builders Handbook," publication of the Urban Land Institute.

The commercial area in question, still undeveloped, is bounded by Willow road, Linfield drive, Middlefield road and the tract's residential zones.

INVITE DEVELOPER

The planners decided to invite Lindsay to their Jan. 17 study session on receipt of a copy of a letter from Lindsay to the city council, regarding a C of C recommendation of last November. Lindsay's letter to the council called the Chamber's suggestion "untimely and unfair at this time."

It also traced the history of the zoning of Linfield Oaks, since its original layout in 1949.

The planners reaffirmed their stand regarding the extension of Willow road in a report to the city council, in which they described it as a "vital interior link" in Menlo Park's own transportation system.

They pointed out that it should not detract from the necessity of constructing a link from the present Willow road extension which is supposed to head south from the vicinity of the A. C. Nielsen company, and thence head west to join with an extenison of Sandhill road in the vicinity of the Sandhill shopping center.

TELL REASONS

In recommending that the other portion of Willow road be extended to El Camino Real, they observed that the interior connector is sufficiently vital so that it should be got underway as soon as possible; the other link, through Palo Alto, cannot be completed until two cities, two counties, Stanford university and possibly the state department of highways have agreed on plans.

The report to the council also told details of last month's hearing, at which a petition signed by 128 Linfield Oaks residents was received.

Residents had apparently failed to realize that the city's master plan calls for connecting the existing Willow road with the highway in the vicinity of Cambridge avenue.

The report to the council was read by Planner Vaile Andrus.

In a separate action, the planners approved a property line adjustment between two, two acre parcels in Linfield Oaks' professional-administrative zone.

Dog Law:

BARES TEETH

Beginning this week, Menlo Park's animal control ordinance is going to get some teeth in it, in the form of citations issued to animal owners whose pets aren't being kept under regulations called for.

This was reported this week by Poundmaster A. F. Petrucci, who added that when he issues a citation, he won't be fooling. The documents call for an appearance in municipal court in Redwood City by the animal's owner.

Most frequent transgressors of terms of the animal control ordinance, says the poundmaster, are dogs who don't stay home. The city's animal control writ specifically provides that dogs shall be "under control of a person at all times" unless shut up in a yard.

Petrucci adds that such transgressions aren't the fault of the dog. The owner is the one cited, because he's the one who's supposed to know the terms of the law.

If a dog is spotted, he continues ,the owner can be identified by a dog license or by watching the dog until he returns to his home.

Dogs who follow children to school are apt to be picked up on the school grounds and encarcerated, in addition to which a citation may be visited upon the owner.

"We're not going on a crusade," and we hope we don't have to cite too many," he added. "A word to the wise should be sufficient.

"Redwood City has used a similar system for several years, and find it works very well."

Police Hold Down Traffic Mishaps in '54

There was but one more traffic accident in Menlo Park in 1954 than in 1953, Menlo Park police Chief George Potter noted this week, in spite of the area's continually increasing population and traffic hazards.

And, as he listed a total of 215 accidents last year as compared with 214 the previous year, he noted that 1954's record could have been even better; until the middle of December, Menlo Park had fewer accidents than for the comparative portion of 1953. But during the Yuletide holidays, at least three accidents in which drinking figured as a cause occurred in Menlo Park.

Nineteen fifty-four was the second straight year that Menlo Park has gone without a traffic fatality. During 1952, there were four persons killed on the streets of Menlo Park.

And while noting the slight increase in the accident total, Chief Potter also pointed out that there was a relatively sharp drop in injury accidents; 46 last year as compared with 53 in 1953. However, there were 169 minor accidents last year as compared with 161 the previous year, bringing the total back up.

The relative drop in accidents —relative, rather than absolute, because of the late surge—was due to several factors, according to Potter.

THANKS OFFICERS

"First," he observed, "I think we should cite the members of the department who have been working on traffic problems. Most have been continuing their in-service training, and as the years go by, are becoming increasingly proficient in their work.

"Too, the city's traffic safety commission, which gives its attention to the most pressing traffic situations in the city, has gone a long way toward eliminating some of the hazards which invite accidents."

As indicated last week, the final statistics for the year showed El Camino Real to be far and away the most dangerous thoroughfare in the city.

Of the accidents which occurred last year, "not watching roadway" was responsible for 33 and "right of way violations" for 36; 24 mishaps were caused by following too closely; 16 by speeding; 12 involved drivers who had been drinking and others eight, according to the police, involved pedestrians who were at fault.

Signal violations also figured in eight accidents, unsafe left turns in seven, bicycle riders in nine and a cat in the street, faulty hand signalling, defective brakes, falling asleep at the wheel, careless backing, opening car doors on the wrong side and a scattering of other causes figured in the other mishaps.

City Launches Campaign To Unify Schools Here

Defends Ladera Expansion:

Las Lomitas School Board Opens Fire On Opposition to $193,000 Bond Issue

Las Lomitas School District board of trustees this week took the offensive in support of their $193,000 bond issue on which the district's voters will cast ballots Feb. 8, citing state recommendations and lower costs among reasons for proposing expansion at Ladera school.

The action came on the heels of a declaration, made last week by Chairman Malcolm Paterson, to the effect that the 30-member Las Lomitas Taxpayers' association, which he heads, will oppose passage of the measure.

A letter to the Recorder, signed by Jack Robertson, chairman of the district's board of trustees, this week points out that state aid funds might be held up if the district does not build in accordance with recommendatione already made by state representatives; some of these vary from proposals put forward by Paterson's group.

Tracing history of the district's building program in the past few years, the letter declares:

"In 1951 the Las Lomitas Board of Trustees in conjunction with the State School Planning Commission determined that a second school was necessary in our district and that it should be located at Ladera.

"The board wished at that time to expend the state aid funds on the Las Lomitas School except for the amount necessary to acquire the Ladera site. The State School Planning Commission required that sufficient classroom facilities be provided to adequately house projected enrollment increases for a period of two years, and urged that the remaining allowable square footage be used to provide a complete and balanced plant.

"In complying with the recommendations of the state there re-

New Supermarket Planned on Menlo Avenue

Plans for a new supermarket to occupy the area bounded by University drive, Menlo avenue and Evelyn street, south of the municipal alley at the rear of buildings facing Santa Cruz avenue, were revealed before the Menlo Park planning commission this week.

The new market, according to present plans, will be 116 by 160 feet in its outside dimensions and all of the area south of the alley, with the exception of the single building, will be converted to offstreet parking if planners approve details of the project.

The commission will consider the rezonings necessary to allow construction of the market, at a hearing set for Jan. 17.

Seybold and Ferguson, realtors acting as agents for the project declined to name the prospective market tenant. But they indicated it would be a marketer who presently operates several other stores.

The building will have approximately 18,500 square feet of floor space if it is a single-story structure; this indicates an investment of at least $185,000 if construction costs are guesstimated at $10 a square foot.

Several lots must be considered for rezoning at the Jan. 17 meeting. Some, facing Menlo avenue, are currently classified for professional use development with offstreet parking; some must be "traded" for areas which will have to have a commercial designation if the market is built while others will have to be designated exclusively "parking" areas.

In any case, the ratio of two square feet of offstreet parking for every square foot of rentable floor area, required by city police, will be preserved, Seybold and Ferguson said.

Year End Crash Injures 3 Here

Three persons were injured and two cars badly damaged on New Year's eve, in a collision at University drive and college avenue.

The mishap, last injury accident of 1954 in the city, which occurred in the rain at 5:15 p.m., involved autos driven by Benson T. Banks, 39, of 725 Magnolia street and Charlette L. Keenan, 32, of 908 Arbor road.

Injured were:

Banks, who was released from Palo Alto hospital after treatment of minor injuries. He was thrown from his auto by the impact of the crash.

Mrs. Keenan, also treated for minor injuries and her husband, Clark J. Keenan, 35, a passenger in her car.

Draws Petition For Circulation By Area Residents

Taking its cue from Mayor Charles P. Burgess, the Menlo Park city council this week took the initiative in putting before the county school redistricting committee the suggestion for a unified school district composed "substantially" of the cities of Menlo Park and Atherton.

In an exclusive story in the Recorder last week, Burgess declared the two cities should encourage the redistricting group to consider such a move now that the group's earlier proposal of a unified district encompassing the entire Sequoia Union high school district has been killed in committee before coming to public vote.

Meeting in informal session Tuesday night with Menlo Park citizens from each of the three south county elementary school districts and with members of the Menlo Park district board of trustees, the council resolved to have City Attorney James T. O'Keefe Jr. draw up a petition requesting the redistricting committee to study the plan.

In keeping with Burgess's recommendations last week for a "grass roots" movement, the petitions will be available at the Menlo Park city hall in a few days for circulation by interested citizens.

RESOLVE DIFFERENCES

In more than two hours of discussion, those present resolved what started out as seemingly fundamental differences of opinion.

All favored unification of area schools into a single system comprising all grades from kindergarten through high school for the "Menlo Park-Atherton" area, and the basic thinking behind the proposal was unanimous.

All declared it would afford better local control of schools, a more equitable educational system for all children in the area, and a strengthening of community ties in a territory now split in its civic spirit and interest between five elementary school districts and the large Sequoia district.

But the extent of the area that should be unified and the best means of proceeding toward that goal found vastly different points of view.

Some held strongly for exact definition of the proposed boundaries of the unified district, while others expressed belief that a general description of the people's desire would be sufficient, since the redistricting committee would be expected to explore in detail the practical and equitable aspect of the boundary problem.

In the last analysis, all agreed that the boundaries of the two incorporated areas would represent the most welcome shape of the district to the residents, but since all recognized that adjustments would have to be made in fairness and in accordance with good educational standards, it was decided that the city would formulate the petition in terms of "substantially" the area of the two cities.

Adjustment of the boundaries in a manner acceptable to area residents would be sought in the redistricting committee hearings.

With the thought in mind that the resultant proposed district might still be too large to be acceptable to the area, the council indicated it would bear in mind the possibility of Atherton and Menlo Park becoming chartered cities and forming their own school districts.

The two cities have, for several months, had a committee of attorneys studying legal aspects of the chartering proposal.

3-Car Pileup Is 1st Crash Of New Year

The dubious distinction of participating in the first minor accident in Menlo Park in 1955 goes to Robert A. Gay, 29, of Mountain View; Gabriel R. Martin, 56, of Redwood City and Alvin W. Bower, 27, of Torrington, Wyoming — the drivers of autos which police say collided at 1:40 p. m. Jan. 1 at El Camino Real and Ravenswood avenue.

The three were involved in a "rear end" accident in the intersection, which occurred in the highway's southbound lanes as Bower started after a light change. His auto was apparently struck in the rear by Martin's vehicle which apparently was struck by Gay's auto.

Connie Sue Bower, 11 months old, a passenger in her parents' auto, was taken to Palo Alto hospital for examination of a bump on the head, but was released.

NO ACCIDENTS YET IN ATHERTON IN '55

The first four and a half days of 1955, if taken as a guide, presage a good year for Atherton traffic; as of noon yesterday, no accidents had occurred in that town since the opening of the brand new year.

Driver Injured In Crash Here

Nikitas Kontogianis, 59-year-old Palo Alto painter, was released from Palo Alto hospital yesterday, after spending a night there following a traffic accident here.

Kontogianis was the operator of an auto which was involved with one operated by John D. Gray, 22-year-old student, on Tuesday afternoon.

According to witnesses, Kontogianis was driving west on Santa Cruz avenue at El Camino Real when Gray, apparently ran a red light.

Both cars were towed from the scene.

City Adds It Up: Building Activity Here on Upswing in 1954

Showing a general gain in construction activity in Menlo Park since the end of hostilities in Korea, figures released by Building Inspector James D. Steiger this week listed 613 permits, authorizing a total of $5,717,755 worth of construction, as issued during 1954.

As usual, single-family residential building continued to account for a major share, more than a third, of the total valuation of construction started. But about a sixth of the total was also accounted for by five major projects started in the city during the year. Of the latter, one was a school, one was a major store, one was a new fire station and two were new professional - administrative units in the Linifeld Oaks area.

The upswing in construction of apartment units in the city was indicated by the estimate that while 148 new single-family homes were started, 180 apartment dwellings were put under construction.

The gain over the previous year, insofar as totals were concerned, was not a large one but the effect of the end of the Korean war must be considered along with the fact that most of the residential and commercial-administrative lots in the city have been used up, according to Steiger.

In 1953, total valuation of construction started was $5,322,025; there were 596 permits issued.

Major units started in the city during the year included the new Safeway store at Middle avenue and El Camino Real, which had a valuation of $239,000; Prudential insurance company's office here, which had a valuation assigned of $210,000; an addition to the Allstate Insurance company's office, $221,000; the new Willow upper grade school, $168,000 and the Menlo Park Fire District's new headquarters station at Middlefield road and Santa Monica avenue, $149,000.

37 Permits In December

A total of 37 building permits, authorizing a total of $233,360 worth of construction, was issued by the City of Menlo Park during the month of December, it was announced this week by Building Inspector James D. Steiger.

Bulk of the valuation of new construction was in the form of new homes. During the month seven new residences, with an aggregate valuation of $114,000, were started. Three apartment buildings, with a total of 10 dwelling units, were also started.

Other totals during the month included 13 residence alteration jobs authorized, $21,000; 11 new nonresidences, $5660; three nonresidence alteration jobs, $10,200.

The total is among the lowest monthly figures to be recorded this year but, Steiger reminds, building is largely seasonal and varies, along with the month, with the weather.

Value of Average Home Tops $15,000

Valuation of the average home construction of which was started in 1954 was more than $15,000, not including price of the lot on which it stands, figures released by Building Inspector James D. Steiger indicated this week.

During the year, there were 148 single-family dwellings started; their total valuation, taken together, was $2,241,000—by far the biggest single class of construction in the city.

Actually, according to the building inspector's valuation, the average house was worth a little more than $15,150.

As determined in recent censuses, the center of population of Menlo Park is roughly in the Stanford Village - Stanford Research Institute area and, Steiger observed, the start of new homes, also, was just about evenly divided between east and west parts of the city.

The total number of units started isn't as high as it has been in previous years but this is because, Steiger observed, single-family residential lots in the city are being used up and some of the activity is being diverted to apartment house construction.

'Little House' Pictured on New Area Telephone Directory

A picture of Little House at Nealon park, Menlo Park's senior recreation center, will be featured on the cover of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company's new Palo Alto directory when the new book is issued Jan. 10, it was announced yesterday.

The picture will be a reproduction of a photo taken by Elmo F. Hayden of the Menlo Camera shop; Little House is being featured, not only because of its attractiveness but also because of its significance as a pioneering venture in providing a recreation center for persons over 50 years of age.

Little House was dedicated this year, having been built on city property with funds contributed by the Peninsula Volunteers, area women's group.

It has received nationwide acclaim and attention as a step forward in gerontological endeavors.

Sequoia Chapter of Red Cross Issues Call For Volunteers in All Divisions in 1955

During this first week of the New Year, Sequoia chapter of American Red Cross launches an all-out drive for volunteers for its many vital services to the community. This word comes from Mrs. Guy Gay of Menlo Park, chairman of Volunteers for the chapter area which includes Menlo Park, Atherton, Woodside, Redwood City, East Palo Alto and the uincorporated areas of Emerald Lake and Portola.

"Red Cross means many different things to many people," said Mrs. Gay, "and there is something for everybody in Red Cross service, yet it is believed that few except those who have served actively in its many faceted functioning, have any conception of the wide scope of human needs it serves."

"To some, Red Cross means the Nursing services, where nurses serve as instructors in home nursing, in training nurses' aides, serving in disaster, and in interpreting the basic philosophy of the Red Cross to student and nursing groups," she adds.

"To some, Red Cross means the Gray Lady in uniform, who helps to fill the emptiness of long hospital days and who helps in the readjustment and rehabilitation of the veterans of our wars. She assists patients with correspondence, undertakes shopping errands, serves as hostess to parties and entertainments, and assists in other recreational activities.

MANY ACTIVITIES

"To some, Red Cross means the Motor Service. During the war, one of the biggest responsibilties of the Motor Service was driving blood donors to and from the Blood Banks. Today, they transport workers and supplies to the scene of disaster wherever it may occur; they take convalescent servicemen and veterans, to ball games, concerts and picnics, crippled children to therapy, and do courier service for the chapter.

"To some, it means the Social Welfare Aide in Home Service, who assists individuals and families who have personal or family problems.

"To others, the chapter means the Canteen service. At the local unit, a group of volunteers have functioned as a unit since the beginning of World War II, with a total combined time of 237 years of service. Their concern is food preparation and group feeding and they assist in disaster, serve at Red Cross and community functions and assignments.

"Red Cross can also mean the Production and Supply Service. Here, volunteers handy with the sewing machine and knitting needle, can finish the garments, and surgical dressing for the hospitals and layettes for needy welfare cases. They can sew at chapter on Production days or knit at home and the products of their handiwork will always fill a real need," she said.

It can also mean the Staff Aides who keep Chapter house running, with all its necessary detail, such as staffing information desk and switchboard; keeping the records, cataloguing and indexing the files, and operating the mimeograph machines and typewriters.

They work in field directors offices, hospitals and clinics, health and welfare agencies, and their ranks are never full enough for the jobs to be done.

Inquiries of prospective will be received at the Sequoia chapter house, 3540 Middlefield road, or by telephoning EM 6-3851.

WOMEN AID HOSPITAL EVENING PROGRAMS

EXCLUSIVE GROUP—Shown are a group of members of the Night Gray Ladies of the Sequoia chapter of American Red Cross, who act as hostesses at evening parties and other affairs at the veterans' hospital in Menlo Park. The Night Gray Ladies group is made up of women who are employed during the daytime, but who devote one night a week at the local hospital. Shown are, left to right, Mrs. Donald Sullivan of Menlo Park, Miss Adria Adams of Redwood City and Maryon Senese of Palo Alto.

Year-End Tally Shows:

Burglaries, Other Crimes Against Property Show Sharp Decline in Menlo Park in '54

Serious crimes, in general, are growing less frequent in Menlo Park.

This was the observation of Police Chief George Potter, who this week compared statistics on the number of burglaries, attempted burglaries and petty thefts in 1954 with those of previous years.

For instance last year, there were 15 burglaries and three attempted burglaries in the city while in 1953 there were 33 burglaries and 12 attempts and in 1952 there were 24 burglaries and six attempts.

On the debit side of the ledger there were upswings, however, in grand theft (five cases last year as compared with three in 1953) and drunken driver arrests (29 last year as compared with 21 the previous year).

There was one murder in Menlo Park last year—the first such violence in many.

Getting back to the credit side of the count, Potter observed that petty thefts were also on the decrease; there were 137 last year as compared with 142 the previous year.

MORE CHECKS

Potter attributes the decrease in burglaries to the fact that, with acquisition of the police department's three-wheel motorcycle, it is possible to make more frequent "door checks" in the city's downtown business district.

Burglaries in residential areas are also on the decrease, Potter observes. Through the years, more residents have got the habit of contacting police when they leave their homes vacant for vacation and the "house check" run by the police department has proved effective.

Statistics on juvenile crimes were not completed this week.

Details of the valuation of property stolen in Menlo Park showed that $18,130.39 worth of goods had been stolen in 1954 compared with $39,537.05 worth of goods taken in 1953.

Cities to Receive License Fund Shares

Menlo Park is to receive $7690.91 and Atherton is to receive $1786.49, as their shares of state motor vehicle license fee apportionments for the period from June 1 through Nov. 30, it was announced this week by State Controller Robert C. Kirkwood.

The apportionments are based on the cities' official populations. In Menlo Park, this is listed as 22,003; Atherton's population is given as 5111.

Willow Widening Forces Move Of Pharmacy

Some collateral problems resulting from the impending construction of the Willow road-Bayshore highway cloverleaf rose to plague the Menlo Park planning commission Monday night, but were neatly solved when the planners agreed:

1. That a drug store at Willow road and Chester street could be moved back 50 feet;

2. That remnants of five lots facing Willow road, one block to the east of the drug store, could be combined into one legal lot.

Applicant for both permits was J. F. Clarke, operator of Clarkes' pharmacy at 900 Willow road. He explained that the thoroughfare will be a "limited access" street when widened to four lanes and straightened, as outlined before the city council two weeks ago.

This will make it necessary for access to his parking areas to be from Chester street, he said, and good designing called for moving the existing drug store back 50 feet, although he could legally accomplish much the same thing without special permission merely by moving the structure 30 feet.

Unexpected opposition came from the floor in the form of a statement by James A. Baker, 407 Chester street, who said he objected to the parking area and rear of the store being moved closer to his home.

Several other residents, however, stated approval of the move, but said they would prefer that height of the building when moved, be limited to 15 feet. Clarke had contemplated the addition of a mezzanine.

The limitation was recommended by the planners.

The creation of the other lot followed long discussion of details.

BIKE LICENSES

Children who received bicycles for Christmas presents — they've presumably learned to ride them by this time — were this week reminded by Police Chief George Potter that they should get licenses.

Licenses cost nothing if the bicycle owner resides in Menlo Park and 50 cents if the applicant resides outside the city. They're useful for identifying lost, stolen or strayed two-wheelers.

Licenses may be obtained at the police station in civic center after 5 p. m. weekdays and all day Sundays and Saturdays.

Planners Nix Offstreet Parking 'Out' for Market

A proposed change in zoning that would have allowed a lot at Clover lane and Willow road to be used for offstreet parking until its owner decides to build an apartment house was turned down by the city planning commission this week on the basis that it might lead the way to opening new areas to commercial development.

Planners decided the lot could not be rezoned for parking in the interim, even if it is vacant at the present time.

Owner Dan Atell said he plans to build an apartment house in the near future, but in the meantime would like to let Butera brothers, operators of a market at 75 Middlefiel road, use the lot for offstreet parking.

He had applied for a rezoning to "transitional" classification, which would have allowed parking until such time as his multiple dwelling is under construction.

reet Tree Planting Program Resumed for ason by Menlo Park Street Department

es are bare and dormant and thil has been softened sufficiently by recent rains to make for easdigging and with these considerations in mind, Menlo Park str and parks department wors have got their annual str tree planting program underway.

In previous years a charge of is made for placing trees on the nt of each lot but, street department foreman Leonard Klein rems residents, the trees are maiined by the city after they are nted.

Thus far this year, about 100 units have been placed in the ground; within the next few weeks workers will plant about 400 or 500 more.

The city prefers that residents band together so that planting may be done a block at a time, but individual householders can also apply to have street trees planted in front of their homes. Those wishing to participate in the program should call the city manager's office for details.

Thus far this year, liquidamber and camphor trees have proved the most popular for planting, according to Klein. But the patrons of the program also may choose flowering plum, Modesto ash, or Washington hawthorne.

Klein points out, also, that the city crews will plant magnolia trees, should residents desire it and should sufficient space be available. Cost of planting magnolias, however, is $10.

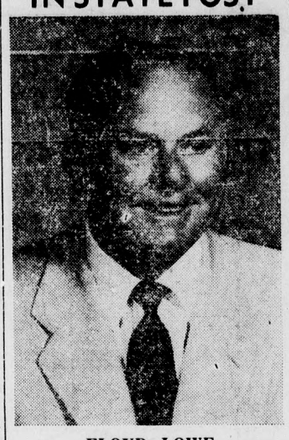

Work has been conducted in all parts of the city and planting is conducted when crews are available, Klein added.

Pegmatites contain more radioactive minerals than any other type of igneous rock.

FLOYD LOWE

Properous '55 Predicted Before Realtors Here

A prosperous 1955 for the entire nation, and an especially prosperous year for the Pacific coast was the forecast given Monday noon to the Menlo Park-Atherton Board of Realtors by Joseph R. Matthews, vice-president of the A. C. Nielsen company.

Matthews, who is in charge of western radio and television operations of the marketing research firm, which recently moved into its new quarters in Menlo Park, drew upon the vast store of facts and figures accumulated by the organization in making his optimistic predictions.

National employment, income and productivity, he said, could be expected to equal or top 1954 levels, and the continuing population growth of the western states gives this area, he said, an even brighter outlook.

Matthews spoke before the Realtors in their first luncheon meeting of the year, held at the Fraternal Hall, 645 Roble avenue. Presiding at his first meeting as president of the group was Dick Wright, who was installed last week by Floyd Lowe, president-elect of the California Real Estate association in joint installation ceremonies at Rickey's Studio Inn with the realty boards of Palo Alto, Sunnyvale and Mountain View.

Introducing Matthews Monday was James Pierce, installed last week with Wright as vice-president of teh local group. New directors of the Menlo Park-Atherton Board installed last week were Bob Smith and past-president Harry V. Spade, along with holdover directors Nellie Paget and Dave Diegelman. Rufus S. Tufts this year is succeeding himself for his third term as secretary of the board.

Elks Name Members To State Panels

The California Elks association of the Benevolent and Protective Order of the Elks this week announced the names of three Menlo Park men who will serve on state committees for the 1954-55 year. All are members of Palo Alto lodge 1471.

Of the local men, Harry Smart has been named to serve on the Boy Scout Activities committee; John B. Morey, district chairman of Menlo Park, has been named to the Piggy Bank committee and state convention advisory committee and Everett Dahl, credentials committee.

State Realtors Put Spotlight On Area Men

Menlo Park and Atherton area notables will hold the spotlight of the California Real Estate association's annual meeting and installation, this weekend at Rickey's.

Floyd Lowe of 45 Frederick avenue, Atherton, will be installed as the association president; Menlo Park Mayor Charles P. Burgess, who is also president of the League of California Cities, will be a featured speaker at the luncheon Saturday which will follow Lowe's official inauguration.

Actually, the meet will start tomorrow, Friday, at the Palo Alto community center.

During the morning Realtors from all parts of the state will attend discussion sessions dealing with a variety of technical subjects; after that, they meet for lunch and, in the afternoon, participate in a variety of tours on which they will view some of the notable recent real estate developments in this area.

Mrs. Lowe has been designated chairman in charge of a women's tour.

The inaugural luncheon meeting will be held at Rickey's Studio Inn. Other officers to be installed are Charles H. Brown, Pasadena, treasurer and Eugene P. Conser, Los Angeles, state secretary.

Incidental to the inaugural meeting will be the presentation to the state of California of the Frank Finley Merriam Redwood Grove by the Save-the-Redwoods league in honor of the former governor who will be honorary installing officer of the meeting. Aubrey Drury, administrative secretary of the league, will make the presentation.

Charter Reviews Set for Scouts

Annual review of charters of three Menlo Park area Cub Scout packs, three Boy Scout troops, and one Explorer Scout unit will be the business of the evening Jan. 10, at Central school.

The charter review session will convene at 7:30 p. m.

Formal business will include the review of charters of Cub Scout Packs 33, 66 and 91 and Troops 166, 168 and 333. Explorer Post 166 will also have its charter reviewed.

51 TO GO

Here we go, with a new volume number over our heads, and, after 51 more weekly issues of the Recorder, we hope to have wrapped up for you the year 1955 as it affected the Menlo Park, Atherton, Woodside area.

With this issue the Recorder begins its 32nd year of covering all the news of your home town, and at the same time the Recorder's present management marks the beginning of its seventh year of growth with this community.

These have been pleasant and interesting years for all of us, and we look forward to chronicling the events of 1955 and of many years to come. As a corollary to that hope for the future, we renew to you our pledge that we will continue to do the best we can to cover completely, accurately, and without fear, favor, or prejudice all the news of this area.

The Recorder does not try to be "bigtime." We do not presume to give you the news of all the world, not even of the entire state or county. We are concerned only with the persons and events that affect this small area in which you — and we — live.

Let our worthy colleagues of the daily press tell you about the national and international scene! They can do it better!

But we believe that, because our editorial horizons are circumscribed, because we are not tempted to fill our columns with stories received "over the wire," because every inch of news in this newspapers is written locally for and about local people, we can do a better job than anyone else in presenting to you the true facts of your home town.

There was a day in Recorder history when our first editor and publisher, L. E. Harris, could do the job single-handed, not only gathering and writing the news, but setting the type and printing the paper, too. Menlo Park was small in those days. It has grown since, and the Recorder has grown with it. We have had to grow to live up to our goal of covering ALL the news of the community, and, like the community, we still are growing.

We may be small potatoes as newspapers go. We are, however, no smaller as a newspaper than the Menlo Park area as a community, and to a small mouth, a small potato can be a big bite!

So much for the completeness of local news coverage we try to offer you. Accuracy is another thing.

Accuracy in a newspaper involves more than just putting down the right words to tell what really happened. In trying to report accurately what is happening here, we try, too, to put events in their proper relation to each other.

Improper "play" for a story — giving a relatively unimportant occurrence more or less than its proper share of prominence — can distort the picture almost as much as saying the wrong thing.

As a weekly record of the community, we are in an enviable position, and we try to capitalize on it to give you the truest picture possible of what is going on immediately around you.

Rarely are we forced to rush a story into print without an opportunity to check the full truth of it, and, with a week's view of things, we can survey the entire picture before deciding what is of the greatest importance or the most interest to the largest number.

In this reach for accuracy, too, the local nature of our editorial interest is of help. Because we are in the middle of local happenings, because we live with them day in and day out, we have the advantage of familiarity in keeping our facts and news values straight.

These are the grounds on which we base our effort to give you the best news coverage in your local area. We try to live up to this goal of complete and accurate reporting. That we do not always succeed we admit, but when we fail, when you find us in error or in oversight, know that the slip is unintentional.

And herein we come to the third facet of our newspaper's pledge: to report without fear, favor or prejudice.

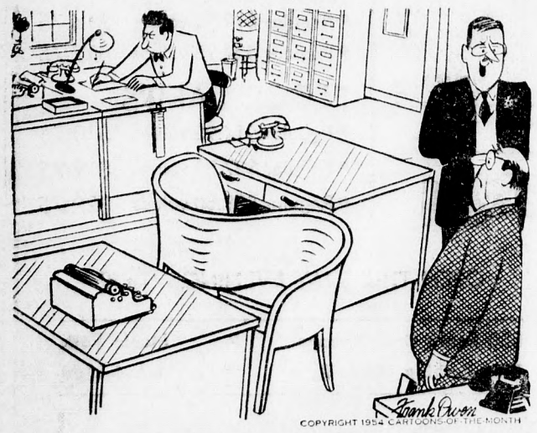

If we overlook a story, it is because we forgot or misjudged it or because a news contact let us down. It is not an intentional slight to any person or group involved. If we report an item incorrectly, it is an honest mistake, not an effort to color facts or mislead. If we underplay or overplay an item, it is because the trees got between us and our view of the woods, not because we have an ax to grind.

And if you believe we are wrong, let us know. Our columns on this page always are open for Letters to the Editor. So long as such missives are signed and couched in printable terms, they will be published whether we agree with the writer's views or not.

Having thus once more stated our intentions, let's go on to the next 51 issues of 1955.

May it be an interesting and progressive year for this community, and may you find profit and enjoyment from following it with us in the pages of the Recorder.

This is your home town and ours. Let's keep up with the town and with our neighbors and maintain this as the best, the friendliest, the pleasantest place in the world in which to live!

Your City's Business

City Bisected By RR

By MAYOR CHAS. P. BURGESS

Menlo Park is bisected by the Southern Pacific railroad line, which in the absence of grade separation crossings acts as a barrier to east-west traffic movements.

But this is not the only important barrier, for easterly of El Camino Real there is no street which connects the highway with Bay road, and in fact there is no street reaching El Camino at all between Ravenswood avenue and San Francisquito creek, a distance of nearly a mile.

Thus the drive between east Menlo Park and west has always been an awkward one, a catch-as-catch-can affair.

When the Linfield Oaks tract was annexed to the city in 1947, the council and the planning commission discussed with the subdivider the extension of Willow road. It was agreed that here was a logical east-west route which could be economically routed under the railroad tracks in the neighborhood of Cambridge avenue.

Suggestions that this be routed to connect with in extension of Sand Hill road were discarded, as Willow was planned to be an intracity street, not a regional route. Willow accordingly was laid out in its present form with a major street width, considerably greater than that of a local residential street.

The development of a shopping center on the Stanford campus has accentuated the demand for a major east-west thorough fare from the Sand Hill road area to the Willow-Bayshore intersection.

The city has set aside a right-of-way for such a highway adjacent to the new Neilsen building, but we are much more interested in our problem of internal circulation.

Before we have been able to start accumulating funds for the underpass, homes have been built on Willow in Linfield Oaks, and a great protest against the project has arisen. The planning commission now has this protest under consideration.

The only reasonable alternative to Willow road going through to El Camino is to run Ringwood through Stanford Village into some sort of intersection with Ravenswood, and then have a grade separation at the railroad tracks.

This project would approach a million dollars in cost against about $150,000 for the Willow underpass. The city's gasoline tax revenue is about $65,000 a year.

Traffic now coming up Willow filters through Linfield Oaks on its way to Ravenswood. This traffic will be multiplied considerably when Alma is put in along the railroad tracks.

There is no solution to this problem that will please everyone. It is up to the planning commission and city council to make their determinations in the light of the public interest.

Planners Okay New Buildings

Plans for a new medical-dental building, a new office building and an addition to a laboratory were okayed by the Menlo Park planning commission this week, as far as architectural control is concerned.

Application for the medico-dental building—one doctor and one dentist—was made by Fred Gutt. The building is to be constructed at Alpine avenue and Market place and is to be of single-story ranch style design.

The laboratory addition is to be to the Huggins laboratories at 700 Hamilton avenue.

The new office building is to house offices, display rooms and other non-retail portions of the firm of Gense of the West, importers of Swedish goods. It will be situated at Willow road and Coleman avenue.

EPA Family Has Year's First Fire

A family residing along Bradley way in East Palo Alto got the distinction of being the first to call the Menlo Park Fire District to extinguish a blaze in 1955. The price was a relatively small one. All it cost was part of the edibility of the family's New Year's day chicken dinner.

Menlo Park Fire District firemen were called to the home at 3:15 p. m. Jan. 1, where a broiling fowl had dripped a little too much grease into the flames.

They didn't list any damage to the dwelling, however.

25 Years Ago:

New Year Heralded In Menlo Park

The files of the Menlo Park Recorder reveal that, 25 years ago this week, the following items, here reproduced exactly as first published, were news in the young community:

January 3, 1930:

"All papers and negotiations relating to the new Sunday School building for the Menlo Park Presbyterian Church were completed on December 31, 1929, and work on the new building was begun, officially, on New Year's Day.

"If the new building serves as well as the old one, it wil be in service something ike seventy-five years."

(Ed note: It never had the chance. The old "Church of the Pioneers, located at the corner of Santa Cruz avenue and Chestnut street, was razed to make way for commercial development in 1951 and the new church was built at its present site three blocks to the west.)

BOULEVARD?

"Menlo Park City Council met in the city hall last Friday evening with all members present and transacted much business of importance.

"A letter from the South San Francisco Chamber of Commerce was read asking the Council to go on record as being in favor of changing the name of the Bayshore Highway to the Bayshore Boulevard, and all members of the board voted in favor of the proposed change of name . . .

"The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company requested permission to place poles and string wires on Middle avenue and adjoining streets."

CHIEF BURGGRAF

Recruiter Opens New Office At Courthouse

The US navy has recently opened a recruiting station at the county courthouse, Redwood City, and has assigned Chief Boatswain's Mate John H. Burggraf, USN, to staff it.

Chief Burggraf, who resides in Redwood City, points out that the new recruiting station will make available all information on navy educational programs, in addition to providing all necessary enlistment data.

The navy has openings for young men between 17 and 31 years of age, Chief Burggraf pointed out this week, adding that "backlogs" of waiting lists have been depleted.

Chief Burggraf enlisted in the navy in 1932 at Chicago, and since that time has had extensive seagoing experience.

Later, before moving to Redwood City where he now makes his home, he served as fire chief on Guam

Walter Has:

POETIC TWINGE

Walter bore a rather thoughtful expression on his face the other day, so we asked him "Why so ruminative?"

"What," he countered, "is so poetical about cows?"

Since we couldn't think of an answer, we shrugged our shoulders.

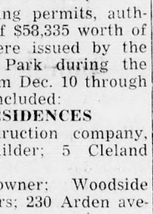

"How now brown cow . . . I never saw a purple cow . . . the cow jumped over the mon. What's wrong with mice?" By this time, Walter had worked himself into a veritable tizzy.

We patted Walter on his hot little head, and for want of anything better to say, said "We have a nouse mouse in our house."

Clouded Documents Shroud Dumbartorridge Land Boundaries

Dumbarton bridge and its approaches may be pretty much taken for granted by travellers, but they have an interesting legal history and in some cases the approaches to the bridge wander around quite a bit in regard their right of way.

The 35-cents-a-car toll may be taken for granted nowadays, but it wasn't always so; a recent survey of old legal documents pertaining to the bridge shows that at one time there were a vari of rates charged for things ong the bridge.

Most of these little te alities were unearthed recen by R. H. Blackwell, formerly the right of way engineering ion of the state division of hig ys. He discusses some of them the current issue of "Californi igh-ways and Public Works."

The parcels originall ur-chased to make up the ri of way for the bridge were described in a "leaps and mounds" description which the state inherited when it purchased the bridge in 1951 from private ownership.

The trouble, says Blackewll, came when attempts were made to reduce this to the regular California coordinate system.

Franchise for operation of the bridge was granted in 1924, and original tolls were fixed at that time.

"There were no wagons of 'ten ton' capacity listed," Blackwell observes, "but some of the items for which tolls were collected wo e as follows:

"Telephone message, one half cent; telegraph message, one cent; each 100 gallons of water, one cent and five cents for each barrel of 42 gallons of oil.

"Many other items included wagons, autos, trucks, tricycles, etc. Exempt from paying tolls were 'any persons going to and from a funeral, school ,performing maintenance labor or attending a military parade or court of law he is required to attend as a witness in a criminal case'."

WANDERING PROPERTY

There were several other details, most of them having to do with property lines, which made determination of the lands attached to the bridge anything but easy to determine.

"The most puzzling was the 3200 feet beginning at the northern Southern Pacific right of way line at the west end of the private road. The only document on record was a 'Notice of Pendency of Action' which means that the . nd-owners were going to be sued in condemnation of the right of way.

"The parcel desired for the roadway purposes was very nearly what the state now desires, even though it was written 25 years before the state made the purchase.

"There is an unrecorded agreement between the landowners and the bridge company, having a very casual description, such as '. . . and extending in a uniform width of 200 feet northeasterly to a connection with the Spring Valley Water company right of way, etc. The road was built completely outside of this right of way, at one place."

Some of the other changes in shape of the land under the bridge and its approaches through the years have also led to confusion.

Says Blackwell:

"Meanwhile the Spring Valley Water company had granted an easement in the shape of a paraellelogram across its 100-foot right of way that is about .3 feet to the north of the railroad and across from the state right of way.

This easement fitted perfectly into the description of the "Notice to Condemn."

TRADE LAND

"A couple of years later, the bridge company decided that the east half of this parallelogram was in the wrong place, so they prevailed upon the water company to trade it for a similar shaped and sized piece on the west side of the road.

"We found the piece that was on the east side, but is now on the west side, belongs to the east side.

"An effort is now being made to trade the piece that was on the east side and is now on the west side, for a piece on the east side."

Blackwell reports that these, and more details principally concerned with engineering and local aspects, kept the re-mapping of the bridge property under constant scrutiny for several months.

Las Lomitas Board Defends Bond Plan

mained only sufficient funds from the state to build a Kindergarten at Las Lomitas," the epistle observes.

OTHER REASONS

"The state further recommended that, as funds became available and the school population grew, the sites at Las Lomitas and Ladera be developed to their capacity and that thereafter a third school be built to accommodate the seventh and eighth grade children from Las Lomitas and Ladera. This same third school would also accommodate the seventh and eighth graders from schools "4" and "5" when they were built," Robertson continues.

"The above general plan has been followed since by succeeding Boards and concurred in by various Citizens' Advisory committees.

"In the spring of last year, a Citizens' committee recommended that a bond election be held in the fall in an amount sufficient to bond the district for a period of two years. The Citizens' committee recommended that the bond money be spend for four additional classrooms at Ladera and a multi-use room at Las Lomitas.

"The purpose of the bond issue was two-fold. First, we will need a new school by September 1956, and we must have state aid to finance this project. To qualify for state aid the school district must be bonded to within 95 percent of its bonding capacity, which is 5 percent of our assessed valuation. Second, the bond money would permit us to construct facilities recommended by the Citizens committee.

"Immediately after the October election the Board requested the Citizens committee, with the enlarged membership, to come back into session to study and recommend steps to be taken next."

The program adopted by the board follows the recommendations of the new Citizens' committee as follows, the letter says.

1. Obtain a third site immediately and erect a third school with state aid funds as quickly as the district can qualify.

2. Simultaneously erect four classrooms at Ladera, using bond money.

3. As soon as possible add four classrooms at the third site with bond money.

4. After the first three steps have been accomplished, construct a multi-use room at Las Lomitas with bond money.

The Recorder always wmes letters from its readers any subject of public interest, hin the limitations of availablace, all such letters will be puhed as received so long as they not violate decency and gooaste and provided they are sig.

"To finance the above ogram and to make ourselves elie for state aid, the board is posing a bond issue in the ant of $193,000. This amount larger than the $137,000 proposen the previous election for two sons," the letter declares.

First, with the passage time our available bonding cacity is increasing because we aperiodically retiring existing bis and because our assessed valion is rapidly increasing. Thus assure that we will be bonded suiently to permit our receiving te aid, a larger issue is now essary. Second, to our programi addtional step has been addecamely the construction of four clrooms on the third site," Robern says.

"Prior to the last elect there was some discussion as tchether four more classrooms shld be built at Ladera or in thcentral part of the district. Theitizens' committee and board reed the following conclusions:

"1. It is impractical tonsider additional classroomsn any third site north of Las mitas ebause there are not n and probably never will be sicient children in that area to ppport a third school and becse the State School Planning Cission representative for this ea has told us that the state wld not grant state aid for such a roject.

"2. It is impractical to ild additional classrooms at Lasomitas. The school now occupiesnly 7.2 acres which is already low the acreage recommended bhe State for schools of its size.

"While there is some ld available adjacent to the scol, this land is not shaped to rmit its efficient utilization, ement domain proceedings to uire it would be necessary, and would be an expensive purcha

"Further, the State Scol Planning Commission reprentative has indicated that the ste would not grant state aid for sn a project and would probabl try to black the plan even if wwere to undertake it with our on funds.

"3. It is desirable to ild classrooms on a third site son of Las Lomitas, and we want o do so as quickly as we can. Hwever, it takes time to acquire lan through the state aid program, t develop it, and to build classroms We cannot do all this and have assrooms by September of 1955. The only place such classrooms c be built by this deadline is at Ldera.

"4. Ladera will not bioverbuilt by the addition of four ore classrooms. Because gradin is done, heating and utilities a in, etc., classrooms can be bilt more cheaply at Ladera thawould be possible anywhere else

Printing Week Guest to Arrive By Whirlybird

A helicopter will land Raymond Blattenberger, public printer of the United States, at Redwood CityF riday noon, Jan. 14, where he will address a civic luncheon which will open the Peninsula's observance of International Printing week at the American Legion hall at the same time as the opening of the first large exhibit of printing ever held on the Peninsula.

This was reported Wednesday night by James S. Worden, Printing Week chairman, to members of the Peninsula Graphic Arts association as they made further plans for the observance, which will extend to Jan. 22 and include the birthday Jan. 17 of Benjamin Franklin, "patron saint" of printers.

Blattenberger, who as public printer heads the largest printing establishment in the world—the U. S. Government printing office, will arrive at Oakland at 11 a.m. and immediately enter the Hiller helicopter for the flight to the county seat.

The exhibit, titled "Printing—a Necessity in our Daily Life," will be open from Friday noon till Saturday night. School children are especially invited, Worden said, and will be given free souvenirs.

In addition to seeing all types of printing, guests at the free exhibit will see a printing press in operation and can observe a collection of fine books and other exhibits being arranged.

Unitarians Set Forum Meeting

The Unitarian Laymen's league will hold a public forum on "United States Foreign Policy with Reference to China," at the Palo Alto high school auditorium on Jan. 7 at 8 p. m. Tickets may be obtained at the door or by phoning Frank Adelson, DA 2-5927.

Speakers will be Dr. Kalfred Dit Lum of San Francisco, formerly a member of the Kuomintang in China; John Powell, newspaper man who spent 15 years in China and was until recently editor of "China Monthly;" Robert C. North, of Menlo Park, research associate at Hoover institute and editor of the "Pacific Spectator," who has recently returned from a year's study in the Orient. Moderator will be Clyde F. Cook.

COUNTY GETS MONEY

For Your Protection:

Better Business Bureau Helps Menlo Park Merchants

"Before You Invest — Investigate."

This slogan of the Better Business Bureau, with which the Chamber of Commerce of Menlo Park is affiliated, was repeated this week by C of C secretary-manager Frederick Sammis. He points out that, via the local chamber, Menlo Park's merchants can check on whether various enterprises with whom they do business are legitimate or a little on the shady side.

"The Menlo Park Chamber of Commerce is a member of the Better Business Bureau of San Francisco, and through reference to its files can often save local businessmen a lot of trouble," Sammis points out.

The services of the C of C are also available to private citizens.

"Almost daily," Sammis adds, "some householder who has signed up for goods or services, through the mail or at the door, finds that the delivered item was not as represented and in some cases were not forthcoming at all.

But, Sammis points out, there's still hope.

PREVENTS LOSS

"Sometimes it's possible to recover the victim's money, but more often the Chamber of Commerce has to be content merely with prevention of further loss."

Meanwhile, he adds, the checking of solicitors an dother businessmen with an eye to protection of the local householder and merchant does not mean the C of C will hamper legitimate enterprises.

Solicitors should check in at the Chamber office, 717 Oak Grove avenue, Sammis advises. When appropriate, the Chamber of Commerce, after investigation, issues a "fact letter" giving the background for the solitation or door-to-door contact work, which will serve as a guide to those being asked to contribute.

The Better Business activities of the C of C are under the direction of a committee headed by Art Flegel.

Besides making use of the Better Business Bureau's facilities for checking on new enterprises operating in this area, the panel works for improved customer-merchant relationships in Menlo Park's existing stores, Sammis explains.

ELECTRIC HEAT
...how it can solve any cold room problem

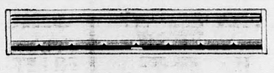

Now, any hard-to-heat room in your home can have new comfort—thanks to today's modern electric heating. You get exactly the degree of warmth you want, quickly and efficiently. And electric heating is inexpensive to install. If you have a room that has never been quite warm enough—or if you've added on a room that isn't connected to your central heating system—here's the way to enjoy all the warmth you want.

there's an electric heating system designed to fit any need

Unit Heaters. A wide variety of sizes and designs. They can be built into the wall or floor—also available in portable, plug-in models. Some built-in and portable models also are equipped with fans.

Baseboard Panels. Heating panels that take the place of baseboards can be installed around the edges of the room.

Glass Panel Heating. The heating element is fused into a large thick panel of tempered glass. Units can be built into the wall or ceiling. Also available in portable models.

Ceiling or Floor Panels. Electric cables are imbedded invisibly in the ceiling or floor. Or panels of conductive rubber or other materials are attached to ceilings.

to get the best results from electric heating...

1. Be sure that your electric heating system is planned and installed by an experienced, qualified electrical contractor or dealer.

2. The room or house must be well insulated, especially in the ceilings.

3. Each room heater should have an individual thermostat so that no heat is wasted.

4. Adequate wiring is essential. Only small heaters in very small rooms can operate efficiently by plugging them into regular (120 volt) outlets. Thus 240-volt wiring is strongly recommended for individual room heaters. If your home needs heavier wiring, the low installation cost can be added to the cost of the heating equipment, and financed on the same easy bank terms.

Properly installed in an insulated home, the cost of electric heat is reasonable. Any experienced, qualified electrical contractor or dealer will be glad to survey your home. Without cost or obligation, he can tell you exactly what it will cost to install a well-engineered electrical heating system.

Take full advantage of California's low-cost electricity. See your dealer, contractor or P. G. and E., about electric heat for your home, today!

DOUGHNUT WHIRLERS BACK IN ACTION

THAT TIME AGAIN—Yo-yo contest time will soon be back in Menlo Park and in preparation, some of the Encinal school students who partipated last year got together to view some of the awards to be offered. Perusin' With Paul:

Menlo Casabamen Host Monterey As Molenda Assumes Coach Duties

By PAUL LAZARUS

After a holiday lull basketball locally is off on a fast break as all teams open their league season. Menlo College hosts Monterey Peninsula college at 8 p. m. tomorrow while Menlo High faces San Rafael at Menlo Saturday with the thirties meeting at 2 p. m. followed by the varsity.

Meanwhile the Stanford Indians make their conference debut against a Southern division favored UCLA Bruin five at Stanford tomorrow and Saturday at 8:30 p. m.

Because of the untimely death of Fred Warren, Bo Molenda has taken over the direction of the Oaks for the balance of the season. The Menlo team is badly out of shape following a holiday period of 17 days and Monterey will have a definite edge, having a five comprised of local players who were able to drill throughout the Christmas vacation.

Molenda feels it will be a week or two before his players regain their sharpness. He plans to start the regulars consisting of Mike Preaseau, Jed Warren, Jack Koljian, Nick Utt and Yogi Jorgenson.

The loss of Fred Warren also means Menlo is without a college baseball coach and a Stanford graduate in PE is being sought. Menlo in the past has used a Stanford fifth year man. A permanent replacement will be obtained this fall.

Yo-Yo Practicers Get Started For Contest Here

Yo-yo enthusiasts at Menlo Park's six elementary schools are busy these days practicing for the annual statewide yo-yo contest.

Contests are to be held at all school playgrounds in the Menlo Park city limits every Thursday after school beginning Jan. 20 and ending Feb. 3. Belle Haven school is the only exception; their contests will be held on Tuesdays.

Contests will continue these three weeks ending with the choosing of a boy champ and a girl champ from each playground. These champions compete against each other for the honor of being the city champ of Menlo Park. The city contest will be held in Burgess park theater at 10 a. m. Feb. 12. The winners of this competition will then journey to Redwood city for the district contest Feb. 19.

This annual affair is jointly sponsored by the Menlo Park Recreation department and a yo-yo company. Most other Peninsula cities will also conduct contests.

The following basic tricks are used in preliminary contests:

Spinner, forward pass, breakaway, over the falls, around the world, walk the dog, creeper, rock the baby, three-leaf clover, 10 loop-the-loops.

Further information may be obtained by consulting the local playground director or the Menlo Park recreation department, DA 2-1727.

Folk Dance Class Opens in NFO

Classes in folk and square dancing were resumed at Hoover school, Charter and Stambaugh streets in Redwood City with Ed Duggan of Menlo Park acting as instructor.

The intermediate classes met for their first session of the new year on Tuesday night. Beginners' and square dance classes met for their session last night, Wednesday.

All class sessions will meet weekly, and commence at 8:30 p. m.

Menlo Prepmen Vie With San Rafael

Neil Nielsen's preps have a break in that they face a San Rafael squad which also had a holiday layoff. At midweek it was too early for him to decide who will start and performance in the last couple of practices will have a definite bearing.

Stanford returned from a reasonably successful transcontinental jaunt at New Years with wins over Arizona, Seton Hall and Vanderbilt and losses to Tulane and a strong Iowa quintet.

However, UCLA is the choice for the Southern division title in a race which could be the most competitive in years. USC has the same team which won the crown last year, Stanford is considerably strengthened and Cal has shown flashes of great team play.

It should be a high scoring series for the Bruins set a new Madison Square Garden collegiate record with 104 points against Dayton and Stanford has a 41 per cent shooting average which speaks for itself.

Women Win Usual Wednesday Round

Cold and rain plus a good dash of the festive season has cured the weekend occupational disease of golf for many men and activity has been relatively quiet. Stanford members are planning pickup weekend tournaments until the spring.

Nonetheless, the women have been able to sneak out for their

Grapplers Face Sequoia There Today

Coach Sam Lugonja's Menlo-Atherton high school wrestling squad, which has shown considerable strength in all 11 weight divisions in putting together three lopsided wins in the pre-Christmas portion of their current PAL tour, faces an experienced Sequoia squad today at the Redwood City plant.

This one, Lugonja conceded, might not be as easy as the previous grunt and groan shows. Sequoia, under the coaching of Hank DeMello, has been in the wrestling game for several years and has always shown power.

The Cherokees are expected to put challengers in all divisions, thereby eliminating the possibilities of forfeits and at the same time it's expected that there will be real matches all down the line.

Besides the Redwood City group, another strong one in the PAL is San Jose, which also regularly places a good team in competition.

Lugonja's matsters have been limbering up since Christmas vacation, and thus far have had no injuries to hamper them in the post-Yule workouts.

Bear Casabamen Face Willow Glen

In a practice game with Santa Clara Tuesday, however, the Varsity looked pretty good and won 85-56, with Tom Blackwood getting 42 points for a new school record; in the B division, the locals won 45-27. Dale Crane paced the lightweights to net 12 points. The Varsity's total, incidentally, is also a school record.

Menlo-Atherton high school's Varsity and Class B basketball teams, presumably refreshed by the Yuletide vacation, resume their tour of PAL competition tomorrow evening, hosting Willow Glen at the local high school gym.

Coach Robert Ayers' lightweights will take to the maples at 7:30 p.m. in the preliminary. The mentor adds that Willow Glen is rated as "one of the better teams" in the circuit and the so-so locals may be in for more troubles.

In the varsity game, Pete Welch will get the nod to start at center, Bill Hilton and Sonny McNitt will be the forwards and Tom Blackwood and Duncan Ferguson will open as guards.

In the lightweight tilt, Don DeFeo will start at center and Hal Turner and Dale Crane will man the flanks. Bill Lawson and Bob Oda will be the guards.

Not discouraging other members of his squads, however, Ayers promised that he would continue to use the free substitution which has characterized earlier games.

One injury—not the result of actual casaba play—may haunt the B team.

Spinner Johnson, forward, developed water on the knee as the result of skiing activities during the recent layoff and will be out for several weeks, according to the predictions of his doctor.

Early next week, Ayers' crew will take their fortunes to Sunnyvale, where they will tangle with Fremont high school's quintets.

Good Frosh-Soph Baseball Team Seen by Coaches

Coach Frank Bettencourt this week predicted that, when frosh-soph baseball starts Feb. 1, his charges will be looking ahead to a season more successful than that of last year.

Looking over his regular gym classes, he predicted this week that between 75 and 80 would turn out for practice.

Last year, the frosh-sophs had a two win, seven loss record in PAL play and a nine win, 10 loss total for the season as a whole, including practice games.

The locals will be using a new diamond on the Ringwood avenue turf at the high school, when play finally gets under way.

Next Week:

Lyric Baritone to Be Featured Artist In Peninsula Symphony Concerts in RC

Donald Stenberg, a midwesterner now making his permanent home on the peninsula, will be the solo artist with the Peninsula Symphony orchestra when it plays its twin concerts, Jan. 14 and 15.

The young lyric baritone, who made his debut in San Francisco in February, was enthusiastically received by music critics. His appearance with the symphony is in accordance with the association's program of presenting rising young artists in concert.

Stenberg has appeared with the San Francisco Symphony orchestra in a program at Stern Grove and previous to his arrival in California he appeared in joint concerts with his wife, pianist Jo Ann Crossman, who will give her own debut recital in San Francisco next April.

Stenberg is a graduate of the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago and has studied in Paris.

The January concerts will mark a new era for the Symphony, according to local members of the board of directors. The association will continue to present twin concerts, one on Friday night and the other on Saturday night for each of the January March and May dates. However, negotiations have been completed so that while the Friday concerts will continue to be played at Sequoia high school auditorium in Redwood City as in the past, the Saturday night concerts will be held in the new (two years old) San Mateo high school auditorium.

AREA REPRESENTATION

Aaron Sten is the conductor of the 65-member orchestra which includes non-professional musicians from South San Francisco through Mountain View, and several who commute from San Francisco and the East bay. One-sixth of the orchestra members are from this area.

Sponsors and season ticket holders from this area include several business firms and the following private individuals: Mr. and Mrs. Graham Adams of Menlo Park and Mr. and Mrs. Walton A. Gould, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Janssen, Mr. and Mrs. Irving E. Kesterson and Mr. and Mrs. Roland Meyer, all of Atherton.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Elkus and Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Isenberg of Woodside are among the Symphony supporters, also.

In connection with the first concert to be played by the Symphony in San Mateo, invitations have been sent to individual sponsors, members of the board of directors, and the orchestra and representatives of leading San Mateo and Burlingame organizations for an afternoon social event.

Planned for Sunday afternoon, Jan. 9, the musical tea will serve to introduce the Symphony association into the area from which it already draws many sponsors and musicians as well as a good portion of the audience.

High School Swim Signup Is Next Week

Atherton high school natators, with nary a meet behind them, will open practice in preparation for their first season next week at the local high school's new pool.

Actually, PAL swim meets don't get underway until March, so in the two intervening months it's expected O'Neill will be able to put together a fairly impressive squad.

Many of the students expected to turn out for competition are alumni of the coach's summer classes at Burgess park pool where, for the past couple of years, he's turned out impressive talent in south Peninsula swim league circles.

Reason Menlo-Atherton has never pooled its resources heretofore is that this is the first year it's had a pool on the home campus.

Down to Earth:

Science Helps Outlook for Home 'Farmers'

By TERRY LEE

Every gardener is, on a small scale, a farmer. He benefits directly from the improved seeds, super fertilizers, potent weed killers, all-purpose sprays, new tools and irrigation methods that are constantly being researched for the big-time farmer.

He should take heart, too, in the future Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson sees for all farming.

This astute agriculturalist has based his farm program on "horse sense" and the tremendous scientific advances available to farmers.

It is an age of chemistry. Twenty cents worth of hormones may put 20 dollars worth of beef on a steer. Some chemicals will delay ripening of crops. Others will speed up their maturity. The big challenge in agriculture is the intelligent use of all this information.

Benson sees the government's job as one of making available to farmers the best tools, techniques, and know-how of modern farming, and encouraging the farmer to do a better job on his farm, with his particular set-up. The government can also help by expanding markets at home and abroad. Benson feels this is the soundest program because it offers the farmer both freedom and security.

SOUND PROGRAMS

Freedom, because a healthy agriculture can best be secured with a minimum of government supervision and personal restrictions. Benson feels the new farm legislation will insure against drastic price drops and encourage balanced production without harsh controls.

High, rigid supports are supported by those who are convinced that government can do a better job of running your farm than you can.

The government should increase markets and continue research and education. Benson pointed out that the development of hybrid corn alone has put more cash dollars in farmers' pockets than all of the farm subsidies in the past 20 years!

GARDEN CALENDAR
WEEK OF JAN. 6

Nothing can make a rainy winter evening pleasanter than to open the pages of the spring catalogues. Limiting your selection is the hardest part of reading a catalogue, but try to remember what it means to care for all you plant. Nothing will look like the catalogue unless you select only what you can maintain.

My favorite early spring flowers are fairy primula, cineraria and cyclamen. They can be set out now for lots of bloom in March. Pansies and calendula can be planted in sunny places over bulbs and will be fine for hiding dying foliage.

The Oregon robins have come already to eat the red berries. They are two weeks earlier than their arrival last year. The old weather prophets claim this means more cold weather, as storms in the north drive them down early.

When food and water are supplied for the birds every day, they will become residents, not merely visitors, and will earn their keep by eating fully as many grubs and weed seeds as food from the feeder.

One feeder that is easy to make and suitable for hanging on small trees or shrubs, is a pine cone that has bits of suet stuffed between its brown scales.

Chunk - style peanut butter smeare don the cone is another favorite of nuthatches and jun coes.

This year many oak leaves have been bitten by a gall fly. This insect produces conspicuous star-shaped pink or coral-red growths on the under side of the leaves.

Inside is the larvae of the small wasp-like adult.

There have been a normal number of galls on the trees I checked, and they do not cause any serious injury.

One ripe apple in a 10-pound bag of potatoes will keep the potatoes from sprouting. The ripe apple builds up ethylene gas which inhibits sprout growth. The top of the bag must be kept folded closed. This will also keep in water vapor and eliminate wilting.

Woman Arrested On Driving Count

Frances Scott, 43-year-old domestic worker who did not give police an address but who, officers say, has two prior convictions on the same charge, was encarcerated early yesterday after being arrested for drunken driving in Menlo Park.

Mrs. Scott was found in her auto at Menlo Alley and El Camino Real at 12:45 a.m., according to officers, and failed to pass a sobriety test after being taekn to the county jail.

PACK 63 PLANS OUTING

Cub Scout Pack 63 will visit the West Bay Model Railroad in Menlo Park on Friday evening, Jan. 14 at 8 p. m. This outing is being planned by Kit Carlton, special events chairman, with father and sons participating.

MANAGER

IN CHARGE of the new Safeway store opening next Wednesday in Menlo Park will be Orie C. Meredith, above. Meredith, a veteran of 25 years with the food store chain, heads a staff of 35 persons.

Chain's Largest Outlet on Peninsula:

Huge, Modern Safeway Market on Highway Here Opens for Business Next Wednesday

At 9 a.m. on Jan. 12, one of the nation's most modern food retail establishments will open its doors in Menlo Park.

It's the new Safeway store at Middle avenue and El Camino Real.

The store, according to Manager Orie Meredith, will feature not only the staple items at reasonable prices for which Safeway has long been famous, but will also feature a complete selection of dietetic foods and goods especially selected to tickle the palate of the most fastidious gourmet.

Plans call for having the store open seven days a week—from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday and from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. Thursday and Friday.

LARGEST SAFEWAY installation on the Peninsula, the new market above, located at the corner of Middle avenue and El Camino Real, will open its doors officially next Wednesday.

Parking will provide space for 137 autos. The building itself occupies an area 110 by 185 feet.

Size, Convenience Are Keynotes Of New Store

When the first patrons enter the doors of Safeway's new store at Middle avenue and El Camino Real on Jan. 12, perhaps the first impression they will get of the new store will be its size, and the tremendous selection of goods available.

Besides being designed to make shopping comfortable and convenient, the unit is set up to allow for the fastest, cleanest possible food handling.

The store, 110 by 185 feet in size, covers a ground area of 20,350 square feet; it has a mezzanine office and a basement compressor room adding to usable floor space.

The building, designed by Arthur A. Iwata of Berkeley, is of stucco-over-concrete block construction. It is fireproof throughout.

Front doors of the store will open and shut automatically, for the benefit of persons laden with packages.

An intercommunication system links all parts of the store, and allows music to be "piped" throughout.

The store has a total of seven walk-in storage cooler boxes, having an aggregate of 1168 square feet of floor space. That's more floor space than in the average small three bedroom home.

In the stockrooms are more than 285 feet of gravity and linear conveyors, laid out to provide quick access to all parts of the store's various storage areas.

Meat, vegetable and beverage self-service units will be serviced, by members of the store's staff, from the rear.

There are more than 236 lineal feet of open-top freezer and cooler cases.

A meat-cutting and packing room, in the rear of the self-service meat coolers, is so designed that cellophane-packaged items can be made up at the store with a minimum of handling.

Adjacent to the store is a parking area that will accommodate 137 autos, which will be lighted at night and the pattern of which is laid out for convenient access.

INCOME TAX COURSE AT SAN MATEO COLLEGE

The Adult Evening division of College of San Mateo will sponsor a class in individual income tax for the second year.

The first session is scheduled on Monday and Wednesday, 7:15 to 9:15 p. m., in room 19 at the Baldwin campus, and will run from Jan. 3 through Feb. 2; the second session will run from Feb. 9 through March 16.

QUARTERLY MEETING

Regular quarterly church dinner and business meeting of the Menlo Park First Baptist church will be held next Wednesday evening at the church. Persons wishing to attend are urged to call the church office for reservations.

At New Menlo Park Market:

Staff of 35 Trains Intensively to Be Ready for Opening Day

An enthusiastic 35 members of the staff of Safeway's newest unit, at Middle avenue and El Camino Real, has been busy during the past several weeks readying the store for its opening Jan. 12 and learning how to make as full use as possible of the store's special new facilities.

The new Menlo Park unit will be under the administration of Orie C. Meredith, who has been with Safeway for the past 25 years. Under him, a staff including a nucleus of experienced men and women will direct all phases of the store's activities; newly-hired hands have been taking special training courses during the past several weeks so that they will work with maximum proficiency from the opening day on.

Several members of the staff of Menlo Park's former Safeway store, at Santa Cruz avenue and Doyle street, will be on hand in the new location to serve their friends again.

Location Manager Meredith has spent most of his years of experience in this area, starting his first job with Safeway at its Palo Alto store. He later opened the present Safeway store in that city, and served as its manager.

He resides with his wife in Los Altos.

Assistant manager of the store is Allen Jones of East Palo Alto, who has been with Safeway for the past three years, starting out with its Redwood City branch. Jones is a member of the Menlo Players' Guild. His family includes his wife Lucille and three children; Michael, 7, Marna, 6, and Mardy, 4.

Walter Wilson, formerly at the Menlo Park store, will be the head meatcutter at the local agency. He resides with his wife and three children in San Carlos. He has been with Safeway for the past 12 years.

In charge of the produce department at the new store will be Charles Barnes, a veteran of six years with the store chain. He resides with his wife and child in Redwood City.

Possibly the staff member with whom patrons will become most familiar is Mrs. Nova Brust, who will be in charge of the cashier's office at the new store. The facility has been added to facilitate speedy shopping.

Cashiers have been taking intensive training on how to make best use of the newly-designed check-out stands, so that patrons will have a minimum of delay; stock clerks, produce men, meat supply workers and others also have been busy, learning how to take fullest advantage of the store's many unique features.

Membership Dinner Held At EPA Community Church

Growing with the community, might well be the slogan of the East Palo Alto Community Church, whose members have swelled by more than 100 during the year 1954, according to Mrs. Henry Garton, deaconess.

Honoring new members, the deaconess's prepared a membership dinner, sponsored by old members, on Wednesday, December 29.

More than 115 persons enjoyed the dinner, games and music which followed. This is the first of such dinners to be held.

DINNER EVENT

A dinner will be sponsored by the Men's Brotherhood of the Menlo Park First Baptist church, Middle avenue and Arbor road, at 6:30 p. m. Jan. 14.

WORLD WIDE GUILD girls of the Menlo Park First Baptist church will meet at 6:30 p. m. Jan. 14 at the church parlor. Lois White is the sponsor.

MP Horticulturist To Present Course

The winter care of fruit bearing trees and ornamental plants in the home garden will be the material considered by Albert Wilson of Menlo Park in his lecture series which opens on Thursday, Jan. 6, at the Baldwin campus.

Meeting weekly from 10 to 12 a. m. as part of the College of San Mateo adult center program, the class will learn the winter care of the garden, pruning spraying and general cleanup through a series of lectures and discussions by Wilson.

For those persons engaged in horticultural occupations, during the winter quarter the classes in vocational gardening will be concerned with lawn construction and maintenance.

This class meets on Monday and Wednesday evenings from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. in room 211 at the Delaware campus.

More From Lazarus:

Where Former Ram Will Settle May Tell Training Locale of '49ers Next Year

usual Wednesday round and Menlo's Mrs. W. Price captured the class A match versus par last week with a 1 up, followed by Mrs. R. Cutter, Mrs. T. N. Wyman and Mrs. G. R. Bassett. Mrs. W. Higgins was the victor in class B with one down.

MP Still Has a '49er Mentor

Menlo's Phil Bengston is the lone holdover on the 49er coaching staff as the Morabito Bros. completed the quartet during the past week. Frank Albert was added as a backfield coach to assist Red Strader, the new head man. Red Hickey, former Ram coach, will serve as end coach.

One rumor hinted a switch from Menlo to Moraga as training quarters and where Hickey will settle in his move from the south will be the key. Bengston, Albert and most of the players have permanent homes in this area while Strader is a Berkeley resident.

Other rumors persist that Buck Shaw will take over the Los Angeles Rams. Dan Reeves, Rams president, does not deny that Shaw, the popular Menlo coach, is under consideration but stated that he has about "50" being screened. He has remarked that a decision may be forthcoming in a week or possibly not a month.

However, the draft meeting is coming up later this month and Reeves will probably make his choice by then as in all fairness the coach-to-be should have some say in the matter.

While speaking of the draft, it might be a good idea to make a change in the bargaining away of draft choices. By allowing the teams to give away draft choices in the procurement of a player makes it possible for the strong teams to become stronger and the weak teams weaker.

For instance, at the start of a season a team which appears weak in the exhibition games as an expedient will give some cash and draft choices to the teams overburdened with talent for players which they feel will help in the coming season. When the draft is made in January the stronger squads thus have more choices and a better grab for the top rookies.

Incidentally, it has been proven as is the case in baseball that the strongest teams are developed commensurate with the money the team owners spend in scouting the boondocks for talent. Some of the highly touted college stars make the grade but conversely some of the league's best players come from the minor squads around the country.

Bowl Game Over; Not Snide Remarks

We're not planning to keep rehashing the football season or our mediocre selection of the bowl game winners but Detroit's Buddy Parker and Ohio State's Woody Haves are prime examples of poor public relations for the grid game.

Parker's Lions were murdered by the Browns in the pro football finale but rather than compliment the Browns for a terrific game he merely passed off the loss by blaming the lack of breaks.

Admittedly, the Browns received better breaks but nothing would have stopped Otto Graham and his mates that day. Perhaps the Lions have won a few in the last three years because they got the breaks. Perish the thought!

And Hayes watched his Buckeyes trounce Troy in the slush and then drove home the hypodermic by commenting that five other teams in the Big Ten were better than USC. Is football entering the "be a stinker" era?

While we're blowing off steam so we can offer a calmer perspective in 1955 we can't help mention San Bernardino's pride and joy, State Senator James E. Cunningham. Prior to the Rose Bowl game he declared he would sponsor a bill forbidding state - supported universities from being parties to any further existing Big Ten-PCC contract which outlaws a football team playing two years in a row in the Rose Bowl.

Seems as if the State of California has just one or two more serious problems. Americans are offended when our foreign friends accuse us of political immaturity. At times they may be right! Thank you, Senator Cunningham.

Flamenco Dancer Lola Montes To Appear in RC

LOLA MONTES

Third concert of the Redwood City Community Concert association's current series will feature Flamenco dancer, Lola Montes on Wednesday evening, Jan. 19, President Avery Eppler reminded concert patrons this week.

The concert will start at 8:15 p.m.

Miss Montes now heads her own troupe of Spanish dancers; previously she was with the Carmen Amaya company and has performed in concert at such locales as the San Francisco War Memorial opera house, Carnegie hall in New York, and with Leopold Stowkowski at Hollywood Bowl.

Her company appearing at Sequoia high school will include, besides herself, two female dancers, a male dancer and guitar and piano accompaniment.

Eppler reminds residents that admission to the concert will be by membership card only.

Promising Track Candidates In M-A Lineup

Just how competition will go when the season gets underway is a little hard to predict but taking a rosy view of the new year, Menlo-Atherton high school's coaching staff predicted a good start for the track season, signups for which open Feb. 1.

Coaches Don Dorfmeier, George Egan and Murray Shipnuck expect a turnout of about 100, they said this week. Last year, the class C squad came through with a win in PAL competition while the A's finished way down in the standings and the B's broke even.

The two heavier squads are expected to be strengthened by the addition of the former lightweights, the coaches said this week, and should be able to do better this year.

The C's — mostly newly-arrived on the Menlo-Atherton campus in the course of their formal educations—are the unknown quantity and what talent they'll display isn't remotely predictable.

Actually, the coaches said, the A's are still building and the main strength this year should be in the B's.

The locals will participate in 11 PAL meetings, not counting an all-PAL affair; four will be held at the Menlo-Atherton high school turf.

Catholic Youth In Games Here

High school age boys' basketball teams representing Church of the Nativity and St. Raymond's church of Menlo Park will clash at Hillview school multi-use room Jan. 11, in a series of games involving Catholic youth from four of the area's parishes.

The teams represent St. Pius church of Redwood City and St. Nicholas church of Los Altos, in addition to the local squads.

In games played Monday at Hillview, the St. Pius squad downed St. Raymond's by a 23-21 score and St. Nicholas' powerhouse ran away, leaving Church of the Nativity at the bottom of a 89-25 smashing.

COUNTY GETS SHARE

San Mateo county received $102,129.03 as its share of $5,368,071 in state highway users' tax funds available for distribution Nov. 30, it was announced late last month by Robert C. Kirkwood, state controller.

FAMILIAR LANDMARK

RECOGNIZE THIS?—It looks like a very familiar railroad depot —the Menlo Park depot, in fact. But actually, its a model of the same, executed by members of the West Bay model railroad club and a part of their exhibit at 1090 Merrill street.

ACTION!

AN EXCITING MOMENT of play during the final game between Green Oaks and Hoover schools in the San Mateo County Eighth grade basketball tournament in Redwood City shows a Hoover guard blocking Paul Gerhardt as he scores. Hoover won the championship, 49-44, in this game.

Late Registration To Continue At Adult School

Late registration for the winter quarter will continue for the next week at the Menlo-Atherton adult evening school in the office of the high school, acocrding to Willard D. Bradley, principal.

Eight new instructors have been added to the faculty, he reiterated this week. Mrs. Regina DuPlanty will teach a class in beginning conversational French. Mrs. Murray Rich of Palo Alto is scheduled to teach a class in drapery making for the home.

In the writing center Mrs. Mable Watts of Burlingame will offer a class in writing the picture book story. Two classes of interest will be children's literature and story telling taught by Mrs. Marian Garthwaite of Redwood City.

In the business field, Edward J. Foley, district manager of the San Mateo office of the Social Security administration, will instruct a class in old-age and survivors insurance under the social security act. Mrs. Frances Martindale of Menlo Park is instructor in advance typing.

In art, John Christiano will conduct a class in leather craft. Landscape and still life painting will be offered on Saturday from 9 to 12 a. m. by Karl Bauer of Redwood City.

Mrs. W. F. Boggess Jr. will open a new section on Thursday night in the techniques of professional writing.

The class in electronics offered by George Barnard will now be open to students who have some basic instruction in electronics. Robert Bruckman will offer some new techniques in his course in bookbinding.

All other classes will continue as scheduled. Registration is at the high school office.

New Donut Shop Opens on Avenue

"We're crazy about it here," exclaimed Paul J. Denkers, proprietor of Denkers Donut Shop, opening this week at 605 Santa Cruz avenue.

Denkers, who operates similar establishments in Belmont, San Mateo, Burlingame and San Francisco, was explaining why he plans to open donut shops all along the Peninsula. He hopes to open his next location in Palo Alto.

A grand opening celebration of the new Menlo Park enterprise is scheduled for Saturday, when Denkers will give a half dozen donuts free with every dozen purchased.

Besides offering, according to Denkers, the largest selection of donuts on the Peninsula, his store also will offer complete breakfast, luncheon and fountain service.

In charge of the local store will be Denkers' brother Bill, who plans soon to establish residence here with his wife Leona.

Paul Denkers has had 20 years of experience in the donut shop business. Originally from Salt Lake City, he now resides with his wife Edna in Burlingame.

Atherton Man Named Foundation Leader

Ward Harris, 44 Tuscaloosa avenue, Atherton, has been elected a trustee of the Thomas Alva Edison foundation of West Orange, New Jersey, it was announced this week.

Harris, a San Francisco business man, was assoicated with Edison for many years. His collection of writings, early manufactured items, and other Edisonia is considered one of the best of its type in existence.

Sequoia Adult School to Open Many New Courses

Most of the 2419 adults who attended classes at Sequoia adult evening school during the fall quarter were expected to return to their classes when the winter quarter opened Monday, Principal Alan M. Bostwick predicted last week. A large number of newcomers was expected to enroll at the same time. During the first week, teachers are handling registrations at the initial meetings of their respective classes.

Thirteen additional classes, not offered during the fall, have been added to the winter schedule. Of current interest is Personal Income Tax, which will be offered Tuesday evenings under the direction of William Billeter, Redwood City accountant.

Listed for Monday and Wednesday evenings is a beginning class in Forkner Shorthand, a method which can be learned much faster than conventional methods, according to its author.

Chris Pelekoudas, Pacific Coast league umpire, has returned to Redwood City to teach a class in baseball officiating Wednesday nights, and Robert Harrison, psychiatric social worker, will teach a parent education class titled "Understanding the Adolescent" Monday evenings.

Mechanical Drawing and Blueprint Reading is set for Wednesday evenings, and four classes in Banking Education also have been added to the schedule.

Most classes are held at Sequoia high school between 7:30 and 9:30 p. m. Detailed information can be obtained by phoning EM 6 5774, Extension 15.

Troop 104 Scouts Hold Honor Court

Eight Scouts were officially given the rank of Tenderfoot, 10 received Second Class rank and several others also received advances in rank as well as merit badges at Troop 104's semi-annual court of honor at Hillview school.

Don Cameron and Richard Green received First Class scont rank; Edward Estberg and Quentin Quien were awarded their star scout badges.

Scoutmaster Ray Bisio was in charge of the program.

Newly-named as Tenderfeet were Kenny Hadden, Bob Burke, Dick Douglas, David Harworth, Robert Rodriguez, Dennis Barrett, Kenneth Dwight and Richard Wright.

Merit badges were conferred upon Mazonas, Chan, Garner, Saunders, Richard Green and McHenry.

The meeting also featured discussion of work recently done in cooperation with the Menlo Park police department during the Christmas Holidays, and plans for the coming year.

A Capella Record To Be Released

STANFORD (Special)—A new recording of late 16th century Renaissance a cappela music by the Stanford university choir and the Stanford chorale will be released for public sale in mid-January.

"Motets, Chansons, Madrigals, and Folk Songs," conducted by Professor Harold Schmidt of the music faculty, were recorded in Stanford Memorial church by the student singers.

Sacred motets are performed by the choir of 50 voices, the secular songs by choral groups of eight to 25 singers.

Roman, Spanish, German, and English motets include 16th century works by Vittoria, Morley, Tallis, Clemont, Hassler and Palestrina and a contemporary motet written by Randall Thompson in honor of the organibzer of the Harvard Glee club, Dr. A. T. Davison.

Renaissance French chansons are by Guillaume Costeley Jacques Mauduit, and Pierre Certon.

English madrigals of the same period are by Thomas Weelkes, Henry Lichfild, and Thomas Morley.

OKAY RESUBDIVISION ON SAN MATEO DRIVE

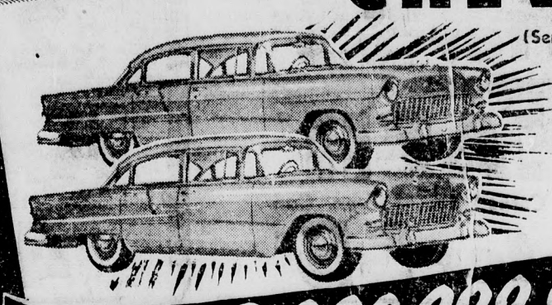

Menlo Park planning commission Monday night okayed resubdivision of a lot owned by J. P. Hamerslag, at 1205 San Mateo drive. Both resulting lots are of legal size, if an easement to the rear one is considered part of the front one, planners were told.

NEW YEAR'S EVE AROUND MENLO PARK

NEW YEAR'S EVE was celebrated by senior citizens of the community at Little House, where a gala party was staged to see 1955 in. Among the party-goers at the center were (left to right) C. L. Rascoe, Mrs. Josephine Upton, Mrs. Leda Austin and Mrs. Frances Clark.

HELLO (OR ALOHA) AGAIN—The James Harrises and Harold Connables got toegther for a chat at the Menlo Circus club New Year's party. Both couples had compared notes in Hawaii where they met the day before—the Harrises on their honeymoon and the Connables planning this trip from their Honolulu home to Atherton. —Camera Shop photo

STANFORD RESEARCH INSTITUTE staff members and escorts ushered the New Year in last week at the Menlo Park fraternal hall, which had been beautifully decorated in black and white for the event. Area Groups Asked To Support Coming Symphony-Ballet Event

Invitations are in the mail to civic, service and social organizations asking them, as well as interested individuals, to "lend a helping hand" by purchasing a block of tickets for the Second Annual Symphony Ballet concert to be presented in February at San Mateo high school auditorium.

The Parents' association for Retarded Children is the organization issuing the invitation. Featured at the concert will be the California Youth Symphony, conducted by Aaron Sten, and the Ziceva Ballet school, with Olga Ziceva in the duo role of director and choreographer.

Mrs. Carl Landman of Menlo Park is serving as coordinating chairman for PARC, the California Youth Symphony and the ballet school. Further information on the concert may be obtained by calling Mrs. Landman at DA 2-6954.

The program, itself, will be presented twice—on Saturday evening, February 26, and on Sunday afternoon, February 27.

The Parents' association for Retarded Children (PARC) feels that the concert, which utilizes the talent of area children to present outstanding entertainment for all ages and tastes to benefit less fortunate youngsters, deserves full support of all community agencies and individuals.

Busy Holiday Season At Kenneth Rickeys'

The Kenneth Rickey home on Holly avenue was well warmed during the Holidays.

On the 26th the couple invited several neighbors and some of their other friends to drop in for an informal open house; the Sunday after New Year's, they had a cocktail party for Mr. Rickey's business associates.

Since next Friday is Mrs. Rickey's birthday, she's looking forward to still another gathering—this time out-for-dinner.

To Reopen in Spring:

Full Dress New Year's Eve Soiree Ends Current Circus Club Season

The old year and the Circus club season went out the door hand-in-hand last Friday night midst a barrage of falling balloons and many a whistle and toot from assembled guests (the latter vying with the opening night of the opera for sheer tonsorial brilliance).

Before the New Year's Eve doings, Ellen and Robert Hexom entertained some 50 to 60 club-goers over cocktails. As favors for the men, the hostess had created clever lapel gadgets out of beer can openers, which she sprayed with gold and decorated with sequins, glitter and ribbon. For the feminine contingent, there were tiny cocktail muddler-whistles to blow at midnight.

Manzanita branches—also gilded—laden with tiny golden balls and gold matches with glitter and sequins carried through the color motif.

BRILLIANT ARRAY

At the club the women's costumes provided decoration aplenty.

For instance, hostess Ellen Hexom wore a lovely lei of orchids, brought to her from Hawaii by Becky Connable, with a perfectly matched lavendar and purple taffeta frock featuring a side-draped skirt.

Becky, herself, had donned a gold and white creation by Pauline Lake of Honolulu and blended the costume with a thick-stranded pikake lei.

Mrs. Jim Harris, the former Sue Kuechler, set off her beautiful pale blonde hair with a black-sequined black dress. Both the Harris', who honeymooned in the Islands, and the Connables had met and compared notes before planing over (an hour apart) for the party—both couples arrived in the early a. m. of New Year's day.

RED CHIFFON

Pat MacNeur wore a lively red chiffon gown and a rhinestone coronet . . . also attired in rich Holiday color was Patti Keyes, who had matched her red-blonde hair with a slim dress of red, white and gold sari cloth iced with tucked white ruffles across the bodice.

Tending toward white were Mary Mack, in a fluffy frock and lei of creamy white flowers, and Mrs. John Davis, who wore a magnificent gown, simply draped along classic Grecian lines (an original). Betty Scripps, too, chose white (encrusted with jewels) and matched with a white orchid.

On the other side of the ledger again — black — Marya Schlesinger's frock boasted an unusual "balloon" skirt created from puffed layers caught at one side with a huge pink rose. Mrs. Oleg Gattenberger's jet frock, cocktail length, was trimmed with tier on tier of small black tassles.

PALE PINK CONFECTION

Katie Moore appeared for a moment at the club in a pale pink confection of frosted lace. Bright again was Marcie Dubbs' flame colored chiffon with a rhinestoned strap and Jean Ennis' "shocking green" taffeta with dyed-to-match satin slippers and shiny Christmas ball earrings (also bright green).

Marie Ehrman went along in the popular pink mood with her dress of dusty rose with a rose firmly planted on the skirt. Mrs. Doris Powell of San Francisco, who was escorted by H. J. Jepson, wore silvery green chiffon adorned with silver leaves and a corsage of baby yellow orchids.

Skipping again from fashion to party, the balloons fell at the traditional stroke of midnight and many guests turned to the tables where midnight supper was served all evening long.

Some of the hardiest of the party-goers ended up at the Howard Schlesingers' for an impromptu champagne breakfast which broke up about 6 a. m.

On Tuesday Night:

'TV' TOPIC FOR FREMONT

Suggestions for wise use and control of television for children will be given Fremont PTA members at their next conclave, scheduled for 8 p. m. Tuesday at the school.

"Television and your children" is topic chosen by Mrs. Anna Fitzhugh Bell, teacher in the adult education schools of Menlo-Atherton and Palo Alto. Mrs. Bell earned her master's degree in educational television from Stanford university.

Based on interviews with 1853 families, Mrs. Bell's talk will explore the possibilities of television as a medium for developing parent-children discussions and research on topics presented during outstanding programs.

Hosts and hostesses for the evening will be Mr. and Mrs. James McBride and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Horn.

Also on the agenda will be selection of a nominating committee to name 1955-56 officers.

THE Menlo Park Provisional League of Women Voters welcomes Mrs. Ora Silen as one of its new members.

MRS. Leonard Bedell is a new member of the Provisional League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Giarrusso New St. Francis Guild President

At a recent meeting, held at the home of Mrs. Harold Rieben, new officers for the coming year were elected by St. Francis Guild. Mrs. John McCarty will head the Guild for the coming year, with the following members: Mrs. Joseph Giarrusso, vice president; Mrs. Harold Brummer, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Alfred Lindahn, recording secretary, and Mrs. Chester Pegram as treasurer.

Marjorie Aborn to Give Book Review on Monday

Miss Marjorie Aborn will review "New Life in Old Lands" by Kathleen McLaughlin when the AAUW branch book section meets at 12:30 p. m. Monday with Mrs. E. E. Carlton, hostess, 675 Wallea drive.

A tea on that day at 2 p. m. in Stanford Women's clubhouse is being planned, with the Los Altos branch, whose grantee she is also, serving as co-hostess.

Mrs. Boonsaith is taking advanced work in education at UCLA.

Married the Day After Christmas:

Newlywed Mr. and Mrs. Mervyn L. Singer Now "At Home" After Brief Honeymoon

Now residing in Palo Alto are the justwed Mr. and Mrs. Mervyn L. (Mickey) Singer, who were married at Temple Beth Jacob on the day after Christmas.

The Temple had been beautifully decorated with white stock and chrysanthemums for the 4 p. m. ceremony, which was conducted by the bride's uncle from Chicago, Rabbi David Tamarkin, assisted by Dr. Harris H. Hirschberg of Menlo Park, Rabbi of Temple Beth Jacob.

The bride is the former Wilma M. Bloom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton L. Bloom of Palo Alto.

WEDDING GOWN

Her wedding gown was a full-length combination of white satin, Chantilly lace and nylon tulie fashioned with a train. The overskirt was of tulle, and the lace bodice was made with a graceful scoop neckline and short sleeves with which the bride wore matching mitts.

A cap of seed pearls clasped the fingertip veil and completing the costume was a cascade bouquet of stephanotis, bouvardia and butterfly orchids.

Four brideamaids and two junior bridesmaids preceded Wilma down the aisle.

Sharon Dowling of Palo Alto, in the role of maid of honor, wore a cocktail length frock of pale pink crystalette styled with a V-neckline, draped bodice and short sleeves. She wore a bandeau trimmed with matching leaves and carried a cascade of hybrid delphinium florets and bouvardia.

SECONDARY ATTENDANTS

Berta Storey, Pat Terry and Gladys Campbell were the three secondary attendants, all wearing raspberry colored dresses and accessories similar to the honor maid's.

The junior bridesmaids were Raelene Bloom, the bride's sister, and Barbara Lackner, the bride's cousin from San Jose. The two girls wore light pink ballerina length nylon tulle frocks with matching jackets and carried old fashioned pastel nosegays. Their headpieces were made of pink carnations.

As his best man the bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Singer of Menlo Park, had chosen Henry Lackner of San Mateo. Norman Fjeldheim, Tony Simicich and John Lewis served as ushers.

GRANDPARENTS

Among those viewing the ceremony were Mickey's two sets of grandparents from Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Max Levine and Mr. and Mrs. Max Braunfeld.

Mrs. Bloom attended in a beige silk shantung dress styled along straight lines; she had pinned on a dark pink orchid corsage. Mrs. Singer's frock was of deep blue-violet wool, with which she wore mauve accessories and a deep pink orchid.

Following the ceremony, some 220 guests were received at the temple.

The bridal party and members of the newlyweds' immediate family later enjoyed a dinner party at the Old Plantation. Wilma, wearing a forest green knit dress trimmed with angora, and her husband then departed for their honeymoon destination in San Francisco.

CONTINUED STUDIES

A graduate of Palo Alto high school, the bride continued her studies at San Jose State college and is currently employed in South Palo Alto.

Mickey was graduated from Menlo-Atherton high school where he served as president of the first graduating class. In his third year now, he is studying business administration at San Jose State, and is affiliated with Eta Mu Pi, an honorary business fraternity.

Berta Storey, Sharon Dowling and two friends of the bride's mother, Dode Cramer and Vivian Cohen, were hostesses at three pre-nuptial showers for Wilma.

Paolino-Franceschini Troth Revealed at Saturday Party

Some 100 guests at a New Year's Day cocktail party given by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Paolino of Atherton learned of the engagement of the Paolinos' daughter, Nadine Gloria, to Robert Thomas Franceschini, son of Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Franceschini, also of Atherton.

The couple's betrothal was announced to guests as the bride-elect's brother, Louis David Paolino, distributed souvenir matches bearing their names.

Nadine and her future husband, who are both active members of the Chi Rho club of San Carlos, have made no definite wedding plans as yet.

A graduate of Holy Names college in Oakland, the future matron also attended Notre Dame in Belmont. The prospective bridegroom is an alumnus of St. Joseph's school, Bellarmine and Santa Clara university. Following postgraduate work in business administration at Stanford, he became associated with his father's firm in Redwood City.

Mary Franceschini is the bridegroom-elect's only sister.

Susana Moore, James Porter Are Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. David Harris Moore of Menlo Park and Yuma, Arizona, announce the engagement of their daughter, Susana Elizabeth, to James Neil Porter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil L. Porter of Fresno, formerly of San Carlos.

Susana was graduated from St. Joseph's school, Sequoia high school and San Jose State college where she majored in sociology. She is now with the social welfare department in Santa Clara county.

The bride-elect is the sister of Mrs. J. A. Scaroni Jr. of Menlo Park, Alida Moore of San Francisco, Dorothy Ellen Moore of Menlo Park and the late David Gale Moore, naval air cadet.

She is also the niece of Miss Susan Gale of Menlo Park and the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Gale, early settlers in the town.

Jim was graduated from Sequoia high school and San Jose State college, and majored in advertising. He is a member of Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity and Alpha Delta Sigma honorary advertising society.

The young couple, who first met at Sequoia, were both graduated from San Jose in 1953. Jim is currently in the army and is stationed at Fort Ord.

Tentative wedding plans are set for early spring.

Last Saturday of Month

All future East Palo Alto Women's club parties will be held on the last Saturday of each month, regardless of date, according to chairman Mrs. Dewey G. Lang.

Adult Scout Training Courses Get Underway This Month

What with the Christmas tree put away and the Holidays brushed aside for the year, it's time again to turn to adult Scouting activities and, in this case, training courses.

For instance, a Basic Brownie Leadership class will open on Tuesday for a four-day run (January 11, 13, 18 and 20). Registration for the series closes tomorrow.

The class will be taught by Miss Patton from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. in the Yellow room at the Menlo Park civic center in Burgess park.

A similar course will be encored on January 19 at the Episcopal church in Redwood City and on January 26, February 2 and 9 at the First Congregational church in Redwood City. Hours are the same, and registration deadline is January 14.

A make-up session for Basic Brownie leadership is slated for January 12 or 20 at 464 Rutherford avenue—from 9:30 a. m. to 11:30 a. m. Limited to 8 a session, registrations should be made by January 10 (next Monday).

Badge Procedure Workshop will be given January 12, 19 and 26 at the Methodist church in Redwood City from 9:30 a. m. to 11:30 a. m. Sign-up deadline is set for tomorrow.

Tenderfoot rank will be covered on the 12th; second class on the 19th and first class on the 26th.

Fly-up training course will be conducted from 9 a. m. to 12 noon January 20 at the Methodist church in Redwood City. Registrations should be made by January 14.

THE JAMES McD. HARRISES

BACK FOR NEW YEAR'S were the justwed Mr. and Mrs. James McDonald Harris (Sue Kuechler), who were married December 18 at Stanford Memorial chapel. The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry N. Kuechler Jr. of Atherton, and the bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dewitt Harris of San Francisco, received their wedding guests after the ceremony at the Menlo Circus club. The newlyweds plan to make their home in this area until the bridegroom enters the air force upon his graduation from Stanford. —DuCharme photo

What's Doing Among Menlo Park Teen-Agers

Jo Booth DA 3-1909
1220 Sevier Avenue, Menlo Park

If this whole column was subtitled "New Year Begins With Bang" or "Frivilous Friends Fling Frantic Frolics" or something weird like that we wouldn't be the least surprised! Because there were parties, Parties PARTIES! And they included . . .

Stew Morton's! A big fire in one corner, dancing, and refreshments at 12 finished the old year off in fine style! The gay guests included Diane Ackerman, Dave Newhouse, Barbara Beise, Gordon Plaisted, Judy Patterson, Sue Chase, King Graham, Bob Ackerman, Barbara Ferris, Sally Seaver, Harold Waterman, Diane Neil, Bob Davidson, Pat Reynolds, Carl Jensen, Jim Rose, Norma Bennett, Lynn Williamson and Tom Lagerquist.

Nancy Parish's "ball" also fits neatly under this! With Loretta Gananion, Sue Estberg, Barbara Blom, Barbara Dickman, Joan Wickstrom, Arline Cottrell, Sue Legallet, Deanna Stone, Sidney Gray, Sheila Gray, Nancy Tobin, Judy Webb, Bob Windell, Kenny Ackerman, John Wild, Tom Hopsell, Bill Bull, Lynham Jones, Don Powell, Sam McErlane, Ed Maloney, Bill Bishop, Allan Sundquist, Jim Henry and Jerry Humple as her guests, she planned a huge, late spaghetti dinner at 11, then dancing and fun until 12! All successfully carried out, we might add!

We insert a party hosted by Tim Young here also! As Billie Curry so aptly put it, "Dancing, eating, and a bang-up celebration at 12" led up to "Auld Lang Syne."

Those attending were Judy Anderson, Sue Fogle, Mary Ann Eldridge, Lynn Williamson, Carol Lou Clark, Suki Donald, Judy Phillips and Bim Beckman.

And also a party at Carol Stickney's home, planned by Carol and Diana Bly! Dancing and eating led up to 11:59, when everybody blossomed out in paper hats and ticker tape!

Having a grand time were Jerry Terhune, Alan Stanford, Donna Collins, Jim Stanford, Linda Price, Chuck Weesner, Sharon Hutchison, Yvonne Layne, Andy Schwarz, Harilyn Hareeid, Jim Reinhardt, Donna Newport, Bud Varty, Joan Stickney and Mike Tielemans.

And last but not least (isn't that a nice trite phrase!), a slumberless party, flang by Barbara de Angeles! Talking, eating and more talking lasted until 4, after which the most energetic gal dropped off!

After breakfast at about 10, the guests, meaning Rhoda Maxfield, Nancy McDowell, Ellen Menzen, Robin Nichols, Martha Wright and Mikel Ann Edelen, went home, exhausted but happy!

And the next day, houses were opened for . . . (what else?) . . . open houses!

At Billie Curry's home, dancing, eating, singing and taking part (or apart) in a mad Charleston contest, you might have found Lee Finegold, Eleanor Brown, Jackie Steinberg, Page Godbe, Dunc Ferguson, Phyllis Irby, Carol Ullman, Sara Cunningham, Pete Welch, Cris Godbe, Lenny Coplestone, Paul Biernat, Marilyn Kelly, Barrie Blair, Anne Duniway, Bunny Clark, Gary Grider, Cathy Peterson, Bill Gibbs, Barbara Nearon, Bea Bowen, Jean McIntyre, Carmelita Arroyo, Ken Lofgren, Ken McKenna, Gerrie Keely.

And at the home of Charlie Martin, Charlie aided and abetted by Dave Sundquist and Ken Whitcomb, also held "semi-open house"!

Dancing and talking over Christmas and New Year's Eve in general, you might have spotted Sue Estberg, Carla Jones, Dan Varty, Gail McAlpine, Berkeley Johnston, Howard White, Arline Cottrell, Dave Easley, Mardy Keyes, Bill Mills, Faye Johnson, Marilyn Hareid, Alan Sundquist, Elizabeth Gullison, Andy Schwarz, Yvonne Layne, Bill Christie, Bud Varty, Donna Newport, Jerry Terhune, Carol Stickney, Jim Symons, Jan Heter, Miriam Waggner, Norman Wade, plus others.

Do you find that, when you talk about your friends, your mother seems in the dark at some of the names you mention Then do as Sue Samuels did—invite all your friends—and their mothers—over to meet each other!

The gals, plus parents at the coffee party, included Sue Holt, Merry Davenport, Alice Taylor, Carolyn Welz, Joanne Broeren, Jacque Cook and Cris Cochrane.

We bring you now that fairly rare item—a stag party! This one was a "surprise," in honor of Dan Tabcsin's birthday. An immense 25 pound turkey was on the menu, and was very much enjoyed by Chuck Weesner, Bill Lawson, Alan Robinson, Mark Ropers and Dave Newhouse.

The Deep Peninsula Informals —or D.P.I.'s—provided an occasion for two dinner parties and one slumber last week!

Tom Trabell was host at a steak dinner, whose guests included Lynn Williamson, Tom Lagerquist, Judy Anderson, Tim Young, Hal Sheppard, Mary Ann Eldridge and Robin Moseley.

And, at Robin Nichol's home, you could have found Phil Austin, Mikel Ann Edelen, Charlie Allard, Elliot Steinberg, Martha Wright, Dave Moose, Pat Kelly (who also helped plan the affair), Nancy Heinrich, Bill Schaffer, Sharon Hutchison, Dick Mazik, Barbara de Angeles, Larry Cook and Sue Kennedy dining before leaving for the dance.

Then, after it was all over, the gals mentioned at Robin's, plus Ellen Menzin, Ginny Levensaler, Helen Brainerd, Martha Campbell, Linda Price and Robin Moseley trouped over to Martha Wright's for lots of talking, much eating and not too much sleep. Hitting the sack at about 4:30, the hardy souls were up at various times—7, 8, 9—and they left after a hearty breakfast.

A couple of weeks ago we brought you a Scrabble party—this week it's a Bingo party! Cohostessed by Janet Furbush and Joan Wickstrom, it featured crazy prizes for the winners.

Champion of the evening was Jan Collins, who received a stuffed rabbit as reminder of the party! Other players included Sue Estberg, Nancy Parish, Loretta Gananion, Barbara Blom, Ann Witbeck, Ann Christie and Lois Martin.

Seven-thirty was the quite unexpected time-to-get-up for 17 girls who hadn't the slightest idea about the kidnap breakfast planned by Carol Tuft!

Jackie Thompson and Mary Healy, plus Carol, went around to drag the girls from their warm beds, but things looked more cheerful at Carol' after eating breakfast. Records and Christmas finished off the morning and the girls departed—possibly to catch up on lost sleep.

The early risers included Cindy Klink, Evelyn Hodges, Corrinne Hirsch, Rhoda Maxfield, Ann DeLu, Marleen Balough, Sally Cotton, Sylvia Staub, Nancy Walsh, Marge Hirsch, Della Hurlbut, Carol Abel, Lois Powers, Thelma Ellston, Sandy Fickes, Judy Halloran and Phoebe Martin.

Strictly feminine was the party held last Wednesday by Peggy Fitzgerald and Mary Ann Eldredge, during which time a tape recording was made (unbeknownst to the guests) and played back later, much to the surprise of:

Anne Davis, Helen Brainerd, Ginny Levansaler, Brenda O'Brien, Barbara Bunyan, Annette Johnson, Diane Ledyard, Barbara Finley, Carol Smith, Lynn Williamson, Blair Walker, Patty Mahaney, Bev McMonagle, Val Tognazzini and Mary McDaniels.

Thought for the day—A man rented a suite of rooms at the Mark Hopkins and the manager went with him to check and see if it was all right. The man liked it very much, but said he didn't need the bottle of bitters that was sitting on a table. "No, no, no," the manager insisted. "You must take the bitters with the suite!"

Robert C. Pearsons Name New Daughter

A baby girl, to be named Crystal Ann, was born December 27 to Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Pearson of 1865 Camino a los Cerros.

The new Miss Pearson, who has one brtoher, Gregory, made her debut at Kaiser hospital in San Francisco. She "weighed in" at 5 pounds, 12 ounces. Her grandparents reside in Minnesota.

'Meet the Deans' Title for Program Of Medical Auxiliary

A program entitled "Meet the Deans" will follow next Tuesday's noon luncheon meeting of the Woman's auxiliary to the San Mateo county Medical society, which will take place at the Villa Chartier.

Dr. James Edwards, president of the county medical society, will serve as moderator, and speakers will be Dr. Winsor C. Cutting, dean of the Stanford Medical school and Dr. John Lagen, acting dean of the University of California Medical school.

The deans will discuss the American Medical Education foundation, which gives financial aid to the 79 medical schools in the country, and will tell of improvements in their school's building programs, present and future.

Plans for the auxiliary's Valentine parties will be discussed afterwards. The parties, held annually on February 14, are the means by which the women's group raises money for the nursing scholarships awarded each year.

Mrs. Victor Sborov of Atherton is among the hostesses for the day.

MENLO Park Junior Native Daughters of the Golden West will hold their regular meeting at 10:30 a. m. Saturday in Central school auditorium.

AMONG area "open house" hostesses on Sunday was Mrs. Raymond Fickes.

The committee is to meet at the home of Mrs. D. R. Shannon, 3512 Spring street, Redwood City.

GIRL SCOUT training committee meeting is 10 a. m. next Thursday at the Scout office.

Child's Impaired Vision Calls For Courage on Mother's Part

By MAGGIE MOORE

Besides a kind of courage most mothers pray they will never need, as well as a continuing sense of the challenge, the mother of a visually impaired child needs ingenuity.

In East Palo Alto, one young mother of three has developed all of these into a philosophy of life and has set about learning how to truly help her own visually impaired child and other children with the same problem.

Mrs. C. D. Peterson is a slight woman and her duties as homemaker are many, yet still she finds time to be an active vice president of a peninsula organization, "Parents of Visually Impaired Children," and learn to teach her child to be independent.

PREMATURE

Some three years ago, Mrs. Peterson's twin sons, Gary and Mark, were the first set of twins born at Sequoia hospital. They were premature babies and spent their first days in an incubator.

For many years scientists have been working to learn the cause of the blindness which affects some premature babies, a condition known as retro-lental fibro-plasia. One of the wins, Gary, was affected.

The cause remained a mystery until just within the past year medical research workers reported strong evidence that retro-lental fibro-plasia was due to an over-abundance of oxygen administered to premature babies in their incubators. This information will save the sight of children now being born, but came too late to help Gary and others born before it was known.

LITTLE THINGS

Sometimes the far-off goals demand enormous immediate effort in regard to little things. Often the seemingly inconsequential "building blocks" don't appear worth the effort in respect to the finished structure.

While that is how some of us might react to the everyday effort that Mrs. Peterson gives with Gary, none of it is inconsequential. We'd like to tell you about some of the things a mother can do with a visually impaired child which help him to learn independence and a certain amount of self-sufficiency.

Mrs. Peterson states firmly that we must all live in a sighted world and therefore, even though Gary is visually impaired, he must learn to live in it, too, and take care of himself.

EATING AND DRESSING

Right now, at 3 years of age, Gary is living pretty much at home and learning the same things that other children learn regarding eating and dressing themselves. Before too long, however, he will be associating with other children and this experience will require more skills.

Another member of "Parents of Visually Impaired Children," Mrs. John H. Alexander, has a youngster of 5 years, Maribeth. Already Maribeth has attended nursery school and she is doing well in kindergarten, too.

Maribeth's mother has wisely provided activities which she can share with her brothers and sisters (she is one of five children) and their friends.

STRING BEADS

For instance, it is not unusual to see a group of youngsters on their knees around the coffee table at the Alexander home, busily stringing bright "beads" on heavy thread. These are abundant and expendable.

Mrs. Alexander buys pounds and pounds of "salad" macaroni and mixes up bowls of food coloring in which to dip the macaroni. Then, she spreads it out in cookie tins to dry into vivid colors. Heavy, tapestry-type needles and heavy thread are used by the children to string their beads.

And Maribeth does as well as the others and gains in self-confidence.

Hanging on the wall at the Alexander home are the "murals" done in finger paint by all the children—again Maribeth participates along with the others. In fact, she has her own special creations—flower pictures.

SHELL-SHAPED

These are made up of another kind of macaroni — shell-shaped. The pieces of bright colored macaroni are glued in daisy pattern while green soda straws are used to form the stems. Maribeth can partially see the outline and the colors—but she can feel the shape of the flower as well.

Not only is she achieving a finished product in these activities, but Maribeth is able to share on an equal basis with the other children.

These are just a couple of things that can be done by a visually impaired child as play—but they are also things that can give the child skill in using the fingers—for buttons, shoelaces, knife and fork and other necessary everyday items whose use we take for granted.

COLLECTS SHELLS

Maribeth collects shells — for their size, texture and color .... while her sighted brothers collect rocks and stones for the same reasons, and also because they can see the difference one from the other. But Maribeth is content and happy.

With just some thought most of us can think of other similar activities which can have this double purpose.

This month, the Palo Alto department of Adult Education will begin a class in braille, both reading and transcribing. Now, right away, some of us will wonder just what this has to do with any but the blind, themselves, who will gain obvious benefits from learning to read braille through their fingertips, and later on to write on a special braille slate or typewriter.

First of all, the class is designed more for the sighted—the family and friends of blind, or partially blind, persons who wish to aid them. Some of these, like Mrs. Peterson and Mrs. Alexander, are parents of small children who want to help them during the school years ahead.

Others, and this is a volunteer activity open to everyone, may wish to learn the art of transcribing so that they can prepare textbooks and reading material for the use of the blind.

If you are interested, call Mrs. Peterson at DA 3-2123.

Country Club Holds First New Year's 'Open House'

Some 100 members of the Menlo Country club were expected to be on hand Saturday for an experiment—the club's first New Year Day's "open house." Buffet was st up for 12 noon to 4 p. m. service, and the television was tuned in to football activities.

In lieu of traditional New Year's decor, the club left its Christmas finery up for the occasion — the latter featuring large poinsettias, a tree-to-the-ceiling in the main lounge and a tiny tree, completely trimmed with real gumdrops, in the main lobby. The tall tree was decorated with golden balls and lights with gold reflectors.

Next big event at the club will be the annual "Starlight" formal dinner dance on January 22.

Scout Uniform Exchange In Need of More 'Stock'

There's a Menlo-Atherton Girl Scout Uniform Exchange at Mrs. Gordon Gibb's home, 118 Stanford Village, DA 2-1150. However, Mrs. Gibbs reports that she's receiving more calls now than she can fill, so anyone with an outgrown uniform to donate is urged to contact her.

If you have a uniform to sell, Mrs. Gibbs can give buyers your name and telephone number, so that no money will be handled directly through the depot itself.

SEQUOIA Hospital auxiliary will meet at 12:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Nipa Hut.

Sally Coburn, Darold Gress Join Ranks of Newly-Trothed

Among young couples who this Holiday season joined the ranks of the newly - engaged are Sally Coburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Coburn of Menlo Park, and Darold D. Gress, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Gress of Phoenix, Arizona.

Sally, who was graduated in 1952 with Menlo-Atherton's first senior class, is a junior at Whittier college, majoring in sociology.

Active in school, the bride-elect served as commissioner of cultural activities at M-AHS and received scholarship awards from both the American association of University Women and Chi Omega sorority. She is currently acting as social chairman for her class at Whittier.

Mrs. Ted R. Steakley of San Francisco is Sally's sister.

Darold, also, is a sociology major at Whittier; both he and Sally are interested in youth welfare work, having been employed last summer at Pilgrim Pines, Congregational summer camp for children at Yucaipa.

Wedding plans for the couple will await their graduation.

Newcomers Auction Off Their White Elephants

Father's Christmas tie from Aunt Heliotrope, Mather's imported cologne from Hoboken—also found under the tree—not to mention the orange and purple flowered vase from Uncle Hathaway and other lovely—but unwanted—gift items were auctioned off yesterday by the Menlo-Atherton Newcomers club.

The sale followed the club's regular monthly luncheon, held this time at Rickey's. Membership in the Newcomers is open to all women who have lived in this area for less than a year; Mrs. J. Donald Fleming, DA 5-6521, may be called for further information.

DUE HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Horn are to return this week from a trip to Minneapolis where they were visiting with relatives, and a week in New York, taking in the shows, radio programs and night spots.

AAUW Adds Dance Class To Program

Hardly waiting for 1955 to get underway, the Creative Arts study committee of the Menlo-Atherton AAUW is already organizing something new—a ballroom dancing group.

The class, to be taught by Judith and Ray Anderson of Menlo Park, will be limited to 20 couples and will include 10 lessons for the course. Any branch AAUW member interested in joining is urged to call Mrs. Fred Cribbons, creative arts chairman, at DA 2-5995.

At the first meeting of this group, the Andersons will put on a dance exhibition.

The approximately 30 members of the branch design and interior decorating classes will display their projects at the June general branch conclave. Under Mrs. Cribbons' instruction, members have produced mobiles, sculpture, mosaics and watercolor paintings.

The interior decorating class studies at the Ruth Sherman studio under decorator Robert Metcalf, whose teaching is based on contemporary design.

AWVS Sets:

RUMMAGE SALE

With Christmas behind and income taxes ahead, it's probably a fair forecast that rummage sales will now be coming into their own.

One of the first of the pre-spring-cleaning sales to beckon local bargain-hunters is being held Tuesday by the Peninsula units of the AWVS (American Women's Voluntary Services).

The event will take place from 9:30 a. m. to 4 p. m. at the Armed Forces center, 570 Santa Cruz avenue. All proceeds raised from the sale will benefit the center, only one of its kind in this area.

It is hoped now by AWVS members that these rummage sales will become a monthly affair, and will be staged on each second Tuesday.

Bargain hunters can also find "buys" at the Thrift Shop next door to the armed forces center. The shop, also sponsored by the AWVS, is currently featuring a collection of some 250 records, many of them collectors' items.

New Year's Eve Party On Whiskey Hill Road

The Woodside residence had been specially decorated for the occasion with black magnolias and white camellias and stock; a green and white awning around the patio protected guests from the inclement weather . . . dancing to the strains of an orchestra was the order out on the lanai.

Buffet supper, served at midnight, included hot tamale pie, french bread and individual cakes wishing everyone a "Happy '55."

Costume Play Highlight of AAUW Meet

Highlights from the history of AAUW's Fellowship program will be presented through the medium of a costume play, "Fellowship by Television," at next Tuesday's all-branch meeting slated for 8 p. m. in Oak Knoll school multi-purpose room.

Members of the branch radio and fellowship committees are presenting the five-act play, under the direction of Mrs. George Martindale, radio and television chairman. Assisting Mrs. Martindale is Mrs. H. M. Benedict, fellowship chairman. Costumes for the program are coming from the collection of Mrs. T. L. Leach of San Mateo.

Spanning the period from the gay nineties to present day, the play traces the development of the AAUW fellowship program from the original award made in 1890, through contributions from individual members, to the 30 awards of at least $2000 each made in 1954.

ORIGINAL DESIGN

Originally designed as a means whereby outstanding American women could continue their graduate study, the program now includes international study grants as well.

From the original contributions to the current assessment of a portion of all members' dues, the fellowship fund has grown rapidly.

In 1927 the national assoication determined to raise a million dollars to endow the fellowship award program. As the sum—now more than a million — increases, the number of awards increases.

DECISION

Areas granting fellowship awards may decide whether the scholar will be American or foreign-born—however, to be eligible she must have completed residence requirements at least for the doctorate.

Recipients of these awards are always called fellows, and the California grant is known as the Mary Treat Morrison Fellowship.

To raise money for the Menlo-Atherton share of the fellowship contribution, the committee headed by Mrs. Benedict is now carrying on a rag drive; anyone wishing to donate salvage can reach Mrs. Benedict at DA 2-2514.

PARTICIPANTS

Members participating in the program include Mrs. Ross Wilson, Mrs. R. R. Renshaw, Mrs. William H. Gropp, Mrs. Clyde Walker, Mrs. H. M. Benedict, Mrs. Thomas C. Sewell, Mrs. C. J. Wood Jr., Mrs. Walter J. Madden, Mrs. William W. Tevis, Mrs. Willis W. Nelson.

Mrs. Alan Eagle, Mrs. John L. Stewart, Mrs. Ira A. Boynton, Mrs. David Perry Jr., Mrs. Duncan Gillies, Mrs. Alfred Schuchard, Mrs. J. C. Hoyt, Mrs. Frederick A. Cribbens, Mrs. Ellis L. Walker, Mrs. Gordon B. Hughes and Mrs. William W. Lee.

Mrs. Harry L. Pawell will act as pianist.

Two Bridge Sessions Set for Newcomers

Mrs. Glen V. Pierce's home, 154 Greenoaks drive, Atherton, will be the gathering place next Tuesday evening for this year's first meeting of the Menlo-Atherton Newcomers club evening bridge group.

Co-hostesses for the 8 p.m. session are Mrs. William W. Tevis and Mrs. N. R. Anderson. All interested members of the M-A Newcomers are welcome to call Mrs. Pierce for reservations at DA 5-8043.

The club's afternoon bridge group will meet at 1 p.m. next Wednesday, January 12, with Mrs. G. A. Hansen, 2140 Ward way, Redwood City.

Assisting Mrs. Hansen will be Mrs. Richard L. Maxfield and Mrs. A. E. Kayser; reservations may be made by calling the hostess at EM 3-2237.

Bride Is the Former Geraldine Marie Olwell:

Justwed Myers' En Route to France

MARRIED DECEMBER 29

The delicate shade of her blush pink wedding gown added to Geraldine Marie Olwell's overall radiance last Wednesday when she walked down the aisle of the Church of the Nativity to become the bride of Lieutenant Clinton F. Myers Jr.

The new matron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene E. Olwell of Atherton, had chosen a ballerina length dream dress of lace and tulle styled with a wide neckline and long sleeves. A "baby bonnet" encrusted with seed pearls clasped the tulle bridal veil which fell to Gerry's waist.

A perfect compliment to the wedding ensemble was the bride's bouquet made with a center of pale pink orchids surrounded by white carnations.

BRIDE'S SISTER

Jeanne Olwell, Gerry's sister, was the honor maid, while secondary attendants were the bridegroom's two sisters, Gail and Sharron Myers. All three bridesmaids are University of Washington Gamma Phi Beta sisters of the bride.

The sorority flower was used to form the attendants' bouquets — which were masses of pink carnations.

Their gowns were cocktail-styled frocks of changeable American Beauty pink and Dior blue, fashioned with three-quarter length sleeves, low, graceful necklines and bouffant skirt. With these, the trio wore matching hats and shoes.

Jerry Morehouse of Oakland stood with the bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton F. Myers Sr. of Barrington, Washington. Ushers were John Coughlin of Seattle, Gerry's cousin, and Jeffrey Pruett, also from Seattle.

MRS. OLWELL

Mrs. Olwell attended the Noon Nuptial Mass in a Dior blue peau de soie gown harmonized with a pink feathered and bejewelled hat, pink gloves, blue slippers and a blue-shaded orchid.

The bridegroom's mother had donned a silk frock which shaded from brown to green tones, and had pinned on a matching orchid.

Pink and white carnations at the Olwells' home—setting for the reception—carried out the color decor of the wedding. On the piano was a gorgeous spotlighted white-flocked tree trimmed with pink balls and tiny mirrors.

RECEIVING LINE

The bridal party received their friends and relatives in front of the fireplace, which was banked with carnations. On the sideboard an antique bowl—a family heirloom—had the place of honor. The piece was held up by little angels, and was filled with forget-me-nots and pink carnations.

The couple departed from the Olwells' for their honeymoon in a southerly direction. Their next destination is New York from where they will stop at London, Paris and finally at La Rochelle, France, where the bridegroom is to be stationed with the army.

Gerry is a University of Washington graduate in sociology; her husband is a University of Colorado alumnus, having majored in chemical engineering. His affiliations include Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity and an honorary chemical engineering society.

EN ROUTE TO FRANCE are Lieutenant and Mrs. Clinton Francis Myers Jr. (Geraldine Olwell), who exchanged marriage vows December 29 at the Church of the Nativity and received guests at the the Atherton home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene E. Olwell. —F. Ramsdell Cummings photo

December 30 Justweds Receive Well-Wishers At R. H. Nash Home

Friends of the justwed Mr. and Mrs. William Edward Kaiser Jr. (Helen Josephine Grennan) were received in Menlo Park last Thursday following a High Noon Nuptial Mass at the Church of the Nativity.

Assisting the bride, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Harry Grennan of Los Altos, in greeting guests were her sister, Mrs. Robert H. Nash at whose Woodland avenue home the reception was given, Mrs. Robert H. Lee of Los Altos, and Mrs. Joseph L. McCarthy of Menlo Park.

Mrs. Nash had served as the bride's sole attendant.

The bridegroom, son of the senior Mr. and Mrs. Kaiser of Fresno, had chosen his brother Bill as best man, and Robert Nash as usher.

Following a brief honeymoon, the newlyweds plan a residence in San Diego where the bridegroom is stationed with the navy.

AMONG localites celebrating the New Year at the Burlingame Country club were the T. Adam Mustos, Frank Hoopers and Florian McGuire Moore, escorted by James McKellar.

MEMBERS of the Menlo Park Women's club garden section will hear Mrs. Sara Farmer talk on "A spring garden" next Tuesday, January 11, when they meet for 12:30 p.m. dessert luncheon at Mrs. Thomas Cuff's home, 1210 Johnson street.

* * * *

New Year's Eve day was a special time for Stevie Mack, who celebrated his seventh birthday with lunch at the Circus club followed by rides at Tinytown. There was one guest for each of the celebrant's years.

* * * *

"Homecoming" for Hal and Becky Connable is a signal for entertaining.

The Richard Buckwalters hosted a small dinner party for the popular couple on Sunday night—this was in the nature of a turn-about-face, since the Connables had entertained Betty Buckwalter earlier this year when she was en route to the Philippines.

Mrs. John Davis of Woodside reserved a table at the St. Francis on Monday for luncheon with Becky as honor guest, and Woodsiders Mel and Don Conklin, who recently returned from Siam (a real re-union) planned a Tuesday dinner gathering. B. J. and Joe Henske have set a Saturday, the 15th, date for more entertaining at the Menlo Country Club.

* * * *

The Holidays signalled several family gatherings for the Ed Derrys, including one around the telephone to wish the best of everything to Ed Jr. and Ellen Derry and their very young son, Mark Edward, who are all in Texas.

Climaxing the fortnight's activities was Dan Derry's seventeenth birthday on New Year's Eve, which he celebrated with other young people at the dance held in Nativity hall, followed by cake and cookies and soft drinks later at his parent's home. Earlier the same evening, the Ed Derrys had several couples in before the Palo Alto Elk's club dinner dance.

* * * *

Yes, there was a skunk (deodorized) circulating among guests at the Stanford Research Institute's New Year's Eve party, given at the fraternay meeting hall.

The skunk was evidently ensconced at the gathering to carry out the sophisticated black and white color theme, which showed up in tablecloths, Japanese lanterns and balloons, the latter caught up in a fish net affair adorned with "icicles" in the center of the room. "Black light" and a piano wrapped in tin foil comprised more of the decor.

Sarahbelle Dibble To Appear at 'Manon'

Sarahbelle Dibble will be among the nine 1954 debutantes who will lend a special note of glamor at the February 15 opening night benefit performance of "Manon" being given by the Cosmopolitan Opera company to assist St. Elizabeth's Infant hospital.

Sarahbelle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Dibble Jr. of Woodside, and the eight other debs will appear in the same gowns they wore at last month's Cotillion. They will hand out brochures on the hospital to the first-nighters.

Tickets to the performance may be reserved by writing to the opera company, 165 Post street, San Francisco, or by calling YUkon 2-5527.

Kenneth Stern Claims Bride On January 3

Happy New Year to one of our very newest married couples, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth B. Stern.

Kenneth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Stern of East Palo Alto, claimed as his bride Edith Roberta (Bobbie) Ellis of Oregon in a ceremony performed Monday at the First Methodist church of Reno.

The young couple made the trip from Bobbie's home in Mollala, Oregon, to Reno accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Edith J, Harvey, and his sister, Marie S. Hilton of Palo Alto.

For her marriage the bride wore a royal blue afternoon dress trimmed with velvet, black accessories and a white carnation corsage. The two attendants were dressed in navy blue suits and had also pinned on white carnations.

The justweds are currently visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Stern, and plan to locate their new home somewhere in this area.

An alumnus of Palo Alto high school, the bridegroom is employed with A-1 Moving and Storage company in Redwood City. His bride is a graduate of Mollala Union high school.

AAUW Branch Plugging For 'Rags to Riches'

"RAGS" is the current byword for members of the Menlo-Atherton AAUW branch, who are in the throes of a remnant and rag drive destined to pour money into the Fellowship Fund.

The drive closes on Saturday January 22, according to Mrs H. M. Benedict, Fellowship chairman. Members are asked to drop things off at the main rag depot, 797 Matadero avenue, or to give Mrs. Benedict a call regarding pickup at DA 2-2514.

James O'Briens Return From Texas Holiday

Mr. and Mrs. James H. O'Brien of 1220 Jervis avenue have just returned from a trip to Amarillo, Texas, where they visited with their air-force son, James F. O'Brien over the Christmas holidays. Aside from the nice visit, the O'Briens report that it was—brrrr—cold.

HUSBAND-WIFE Supper club I, AAUW, gathers tomorrow at 6:30 p. m. with Mrs. George Tuft, 530 Menlo Oaks drive.
